Roosevelt Steps In on Defense Strikes

ASKS ADVISERS FOR OPINIONS ON SITUATION

Stimson, Knox, Jackson and Hillman Summoned For Labor Conference.

STUDY LEGISLATION

House Committee Considers Legislation to Curb Further Walkouts.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt announced that he had called defense advisers today for a conference on strikes in national defense industries.

Invited to the afternoon meeting were Secretary Stimson, Secretary Knox, Attorney General Jackson and Sidney Hillman, labor member of the defense commission.

Stephen Early, White House press secretary, said in announcing the conference, that the men were called to "discuss labor in relation to national defense, including the difficulties of strikes and so forth."

The discussion was to follow a luncheon conference between the president and Bernard M. Baruch, New York industrialist, who was chairman of the war industries board in the World war.

At the capitol, meanwhile, members of the house judiciary committee gathered at the call of Chairman Summers (D., Tex.) to consider possible legislation that might be enacted to curb strikes in defense plants.

Murray On Spot In Defense Strikes

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— Strikes in the big Aluminum company of America plant at New Kensington, Pa., and the Vultee Aircraft works at Downey, Calif., and brewing labor trouble in the $5,000,000,000 steel industry placed genial Phil Murray on the spot today as he returned home from his triumphal election as chief of the CIO.

The new few months — even weeks — give promise of providing epochal developments in labor-industrial relations and Murray's

RAIN, SLEET

Mansfield Due For More Rain, Possibly Snow Tomorrow.

A cold chilling rain which may turn to snow swept down over Mansfield and this section of the state today and the same weather is forecast for tomorrow, with possibly a slight rise in temperatures.

This morning there were needle-points of sleet in the air with the temperature in the 20's, but as the mercury crept up toward the 30 mark at noon the snow changed to a freezing rain.

The temperature during the past 24-hour period went from a 36 high yesterday to a 22 low during the night. The average temperature of 29 was 5 points below normal for this date.

NO QUESTION

Eden Halts Speculation Over Iceland Protection.

LONDON —(NS)— War Secretary Anthony Eden was asked in the house of commons today whether Britain would share occupation of Iceland with the United States or hand it over to America's protection.

In reply, Eden said:

"In view of the circumstances, the question does not arise."

As First Of Mansfield's Volunteers Say Farewell

If there were tears this morning when the county's first quota on the selective service draft climbed aboard a bus for Fort Hayes, Columbus, they weren't shed by the rookies themselves. All vowed that they were eager to get into training and "get it over with." The six boys, all volunteers, were from Draft Boards 1 and 2, and are shown above as they waited at the bus terminal. They are, left to right, George J. Lump, 23, Dale L. Lutz, 23; Fred L. Martin, who was 29 yesterday; James G. Kondos, 21; Howard C. Ripper, who was 21 on draft registration day, and David H. Boals 23. Other pictures on Pages 3 and 5.

'HELP WANTED' SIGNS GO UP

Mansfield Industries In Need Of Skilled Labor, State Bureau Announces.

"Help Wanted."

This welcome sign is again appearing in Mansfield as some industries, particularly those employing skilled workers, pile up backlogs of orders.

Although not actively engaged in filling defense contracts on a large scale, Mansfield has indirectly felt the surge of the government's broad national defense program.

The city is definitely on the defense front with a shortage of skilled labor.

Several Mansfield district plants would employ good skilled men today if they were available, according to officials of the district office of the state Bureau of Unemployment compensation.

These shops desire top ranking workers, men who can step up to a machine and start without delay. That type of worker is not available in Richland county nor elsewhere, except in rare cases.

There is a solution, however, employment officials believe.

This is the promotion of men already employed to better positions

No Armistice For Christmas, Says Churchill

LONDON —(UP)— Prime Minister Winston Churchill today emphatically rejected all suggestions for a Christmas armistice.

Churchill told the house of commons that:

"Any proposal for a Christmas armistice will be rejected by the government."

His statement was made when he was asked if he would approach the Vatican or some other neutral source and attempt to arrange cessation of hostilities over Christmas.

Churchill said that he would not approach any neutral in an effort to obtain such an armistice and that if such a proposal was made by a neutral it would be rejected.

Six From Mansfield Leave Today For Selective Service Training

All Hope To Pass Physical Exams In Columbus, Then Depart For Camp In Mississippi For Year's Stay

For the first time in 22 years Mansfield today waved farewell to its sons destined for emergency military service as six of its first contingent of draftees left by bus for Columbus.

And if there were tears with the farewells, they were not shed by the young men of Mansfield who will be subjects of the nation's war department for the next year, but by parents who wept at the breaking of home ties even for so short a time.

Every one of the six boys—three each from Draft Boards 1 and 2—were volunteers who accepted their training period with no regrets and with considerable anticipation. Four of them left jobs to accept their training under the selective service draft.

There were no boys from Draft Board 3—which includes the county outside of Mansfield and Madison township. This was due to the fact that this board had only two volunteer enlistments and neither could pass their physical examinations. The third, Joseph Mundey, jr., 24, of Shelby, was drafted to fill the quota of three, but his physical examinations had not been com-

CLOTHES LINE HOLDS RADIOS

Curious Cop Solves Robbery of Cincinnati Store.

CINCINNATI — (UP) — Patrolman Harry Holtman, walking his beat early today, noticed a piece of clothes line hanging over a fence in an alley.

He gave a tug and the line became taut. So the policeman pulled harder and up came five new radios tied on the other end.

Further investigation disclosed that thieves had broken into a nearby home appliance store and taken the radios. Apparently, the robbers were ready to hoist the radios over the fence when Holtman's approach frightened them away.

FINANCIAL AID?

Speculation Aroused by Hull's Talk With George.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A conference today between Chairman George (D-Ga) of the senate foreign relations committee and Secretary Hull aroused speculation as to whether they might discuss extension of financial aid to besieged Britain.

George merely said he planned to talk with Hull about the state department's policy and its bearing on any legislation that might come before the foreign relations committee.

Prior to the conference, George declined to disclose his attitude toward the pending proposal of Senator King (D-Utah) for repeal of restrictions which now prevent Great Britain from obtaining credit here for war purchases.

VISIT DELAYED

Windsors Wait Governmental Approval of U. S. Trip.

NASSAU, Bahamas—(AP)—Wartime restrictions of travel outside the British empire may keep the Duke and Duchess of Windsor from their hoped-for visit to the United States for several months at least.

Ever since the duke came here as governor three months ago, he has talked of a trip to his American-born duchess' nearby homeland. But so far, no opportunity has presented itself for combining such a pleasure trip with a tour for business reasons.

YULE BUYING TO STEP UP PACE

$250,000 In Christmas Checks, Pay Days at Major Plants on Week's Schedule.

Already off to a good start, the 1940 Christmas shopping season swung into a faster pace today with cash registers in down town stores jingling "prosperity" tunes and with merchants predicting the biggest buying volume since 1929.

Christmas buying will be given added impetus tomorrow and Thursday when Mansfield banks distribute nearly $250,000 in Christmas savings checks to 5,000 depositors in the city and county.

All of Mansfield's major industries pay their employes this week and a large portion of the checks are expected to be spent at gift counters in Mansfield stores.

The best shopping volume since 1929 is the prediction of Mansfield merchants who estimate that the Christmas season this year will show an increase in retail business of at least 10 per cent over last year.

TEST FOOD FOR POISON CAUSE

Fort Thomas Commandant Denies Bologna Regular Item.

CINCINNATI — (UP) — Cause of the mild food illness that struck more than 150 enlisted men at Fort Thomas, Ky., last week will not be known definitely until food tests are completed by federal inspectors, Col. Arthur Underwood, post commandant said today.

He assured draft board that bologna one of the food 'suspects,' was 'by no means regularly served' on the post menu although it was used "occasionally."

TEXAS CITIES DO NICELY IN GRIP OF ICE

So Do Four Amarillo Babies Born by Candlelight In Heatless Hospital.

$1,000,000 DAMAGE

Few Serious Injuries Caused By Storm In Famous Panhandle Area.

(By United Press)

AMARILLO, Texas—(Via Short Wave Radio)—Four babies born in a hospital without heat or water and with doctors working by candlelight cried lustily today in this city recuperating from a strangling ice storm.

The babies all were reported well, doing fine under the circumstances. And that was typical of Amarillo today—doing fine under the circumstances.

Gradually shaking off the effects of a crippling coat of ice deposited in five-inch thickness by a freezing rain, this Panhandle city of more than 50,000 happily greeted warmer weather and clearing skies this morning.

At dawn the skies were only partly cloudy and the temperature was 34 degrees.

The forecast was for little change in temperature and fair to partly cloudy weather—no rain.

Weary crews worked to restore power to broken, tangled wires pulled down in confusion by the crushing weight of the ice.

Water became available in limited quantities last night and power was obtained for part of the business district.

Damage was almost inestimable. Three out of every four trees were believed ruined.

A guess of $1,000,000 property loss was considered conservative.

As the weather warmed slightly, the ice thawed and fell and there was considerable danger from that today.

Almost miraculously there were no reports of anyone seriously hurt.

Schools were closed yesterday and stayed closed today. Mothers were warned to keep their children indoors, away from the still snapping, dangerous broken power lines.

The rain which caused misery

NUEVO LAREDO, Mexico—(UP)—Vice President-elect Henry A. Wallace entered Mexico today, bearing the hopes of the administration of bringing the incoming regime of Manuel Avila Camacho, president-elect of Mexico, into the innermost circle of cooperation of problems of hemispheric defense.

The vice president-elect will proceed to Mexico City to attend the Avila Camacho inaugural ceremonies Sunday. Brief welcoming ceremonies were held for him at the international bridge here.

REPAIR SHIP

Daring Attack Severs Enemy Communication

Rome Says Landing Forces Defeated But London Claims Move Marked By Success; U. S. Studies Ships For Britain

BULLETIN

LONDON—(UP)—A usually well informed foreign embassy reported today that Adolf Hitler was preparing to use Portugal as the medium for a new peace overture.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—German raiders returned to the attack today on the town in the west of England which was hard-hit in a heavy raid Sunday night. (Germans have identified this town as the important port of Bristol.)

(By International News Service)

Greek troops have landed on Albania's Adriatic coast in a daring new move against Italy's forces, it was reported from both London and Rome today.

The Italian war bulletin claimed the Greek landing forces suffered a severe defeat, some detachments being "partly destroyed" and the remainder captured, along with their guns and munitions.

London's version of the affair was far different. British military quarters claimed the Greeks had successfully landed behind the Italian lines and severed Fascist communications. They added that Italian forces were desperately trying to restore the situation.

Meanwhile, for the first time in 24 hours, a brief air raid alarm sounded in London, but no incidents were reported.

In Washington, the United States government gave close attention to warnings that Britain urgently needs more American fighting ships.

Lord Lothian, British ambassador to Washington, warned that more American vessels must be placed at Britain's disposal if his country's stand against Germany and Italy is to continue through 1941. Final decision appeared to be up to President Roosevelt.

While the American chief executive and his national defense aides pondered the question, authoritative London circles termed "foundationless" a published report that Lord Lothian carried a memorandum to Washington expressing Britain's desire to obtain three capital ships, six cruisers and 100 destroyers from the United States.

The Greeks continued to advance on all fronts in Albania today but it was understood in Athens that thousands of Italian reinforcements were being rushed into position for a vast Fascist counter-drive.

The Greeks, it was claimed, took some 8,000 more Italian prisoners, captured four more Albanian towns and thrust as much as 50 miles into Albania.

Italy's reinforcements were reported hastening along the Elbasan-Pogradec road for a stand in the Lake Ochrid region despite heavy Greek and British aerial

STEERED: Bulgaria Guided Away From Axis By Russia

SOFIA, Bulgaria—(UP)—Indications that Russia had steered Bulgaria away from a pact with the Axis powers became more evident today as the Bulgarian minister to Germany returned to make a report, and A. A. Soboley, secretary general of the Russian foreign ministry, stayed here conferring with Bulgarian officials.

Parvan Draganoff, minister to Germany, arrived by train yesterday evening and was reporting to the government today, presumably on the diplomatic maneuvers in Berlin which brought Hungary, Rumania and Slovakia into the Axis alliance, but failed to bring in Bulgaria.

It was reported that the government had recalled Draganoff for a report.

Sobolev, accompanied by the Russian minister here, conferred yesterday with King Boris and Premier Bogdan Fylov, and was conferring today with Foreign Minister Ivan Popov who, it was said, was sick yesterday.

It was learned that Sobolev had come here by airplane from Moscow. About the time he arrived, Nazi informants in Berlin disclosed that Bulgarian officials were not

SAVIOR: U. S. Depended On By British In Darkest Hours

(EDITOR'S NOTE—The following revealing dispatch on the seriousness of England's condition is from Drew Middleton, Associated Press correspondent who was with the British Expeditionary Force in France and who has spent much time with all arms of the British war machine. It is significant because it passed through a censorship which heretofore has frowned on such statements. It may mean that the British have changed their attitude and believe that a dark picture of their danger would arouse more sympathy in the United States than the confident optimism displayed so far by the government.)

By DREW MIDDLETON

LONDON—(AP)—Britain, struggling with bomb wreckage and confronted with a continued German stranglehold on the initiative, is turning increasingly to the United States as a potential savior in these darkest hours of the war since the German Panzer divisions reached the channel coast last May and looked longingly at the white cliffs of Dover.

British capacity for understatement is working overtime both through patriotism—"it is not cricket to tell the truth old boy" and partly through propaganda "casualties were few having regard to the weight of the attack."

Complacency, distortion and reluctance to admit the truth even privately to correspondents who have no hope of getting some news through the rigorous censorship, which sometimes even delays official communiques, perhaps are as dangerous to the British cause as nightly bombings. The way the censors work is reminiscent of the conduct of French censorship before the fall of France.

Why these darkest hours?

This is one man's opinion—therefore uncensorable—but the opinion of a man who has spent a great deal of time with the army, navy and air force and—more important with the people themselves, not civil servants and cabinet underlings.

First, there probably is no answer to night bombings, outside of mastery of the air, and for this Britain frankly is looking to America although in earlier and better days the newspapers of Lord Beaverbrook, minister for aircraft production, belittled United States planes.

German night raiders have dropped tens of thousands of tons of bombs from thousands of planes, yet one is asked to be-

Draftees Advised To 'Travel Light' on Trip to Camp

(Editor's Note: John C. Guenther, former Columbus reporter, volunteered for a year's training with Ohio's National Guard forces and is now with them at Camp Shelby. For the information of draftees and other volunteers he has prepared the following article for the Associated Press.)

By CORP. JOHN C. GUENTHER

(Written for Associated Press)

CAMP SHELBY, Miss.—To our future comrades in arms the selectees of America, we offer this advice on getting ready to be a soldier. We offer it as brother to brother.

Probably half of us now that we have completed our first month at Camp Shelby, wish we'd left half of our baggage at home. The other half yearn for a favorite little article or whatnot that was left behind. We didn't know, all of us just what to bring and what to forget. We know better now and hope you will find our experience helpful in making your start as a soldier.

First of all we suggest you "travel light." Army tents are not noted for their spaciousness. Army life is not exactly like setting up light housekeeping. You will want to learn how to "live out of a suitcase," as it were and let Uncle Sam tend to your equipment. More than one of us has shipped back books, excess clothing, and other extras which we found didn't blend well with being a soldier.

But there are some items not on the army equipment list. And these items go a long way toward making tent life more than just tolerable. Stick a few of these in your suitcase when you bid goodbye to civilian life for a year.

Electric razors are very convenient. Army tents have electricity in them, and the purr of a dry shaver is a very comforting way to shave when the mornings are dark and cold, and the shower house is a block away from your tent. But bring that safety razor too! There's no current supplied when you're in the field on maneuvers! And, of course, a compact shade mirror is a necessity.

Nothing will be more useful than a flashlight. You won't find boulevard lighting about the camp to guide you in the evenings, and many a ditch or puddle can be avoided with a handy pocket flash.

Going to the showers in uniform especially with army shoes, isn't the most convenient way to bathe.

Labor Responsibility In Defense Program Outlined

SECRETARY OF LABOR PERKINS ADDRESSES AFL

Adjustment of Differences by Unions Urged In Convention Talk.

(By Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS—Secretary of Labor Perkins told labor today it had a responsibility under national defense to carry out its contracts, seek an adjustment of its own family differences, avoid production delays, and "thwart influences from dishonest or subversive sources."

She expressed these views about labor's role in the defense program in a speech prepared for delivery at the annual American Federation of Labor convention.

"Labor has status today as never before," she said.

"That responsibility calls for carrying out all contracts agreed upon," she added.

"That responsibility calls for sincere and conscientious effort to bring about a fair and honorable adjustment of differences within the labor movement itself.

"That responsibility calls for cooperation by labor with employers and with all responsible groups to avoid delays and interruptions—to increase production and efficiency, and to preserve and promote human welfare and labor standards at the same time in the defense program which we as a nation have undertaken."

Doubt Perkins To Keep Office

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Informed labor men doubted today that Secretary Labor Frances Perkins would serve through President Roosevelt's third term but believed that her resignation awaits effectuation of a working agreement between the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

They said that the Roosevelt administration had given up hope —at least temporarily—for any immediate structural merger of the AFL and CIO. They pointed out that Miss Perkins' speech today to the AFL convention in New Orleans made no mention of labor peace, called only for "a fair and honorable adjustment" of labor differences.

Evaluation Of Senior High Gets Under Way

With more than 50 leading educators from throughout Ohio arriving in the city yesterday, the three-day evaluation study of Mansfield Senior high school got under way this morning at the school.

Following an informal dinner in the cafeteria last night, the group organized into committees to study the equipment and scholastic curriculum at the school and evaluate them in comparison with other schools.

According to Jesse Beer, principal, the evaluation will be made on a much more comprehensive scale than has yet been attempted in any high school in the state. A number of such evaluations will be made of other schools during the year by the same group, he said.

High school principals, college professors, subject matter specialists and members of the state department of education will be among those making the evaluation.

Glen Robinson, principal of Hedges school, is searching this week for the person or persons who sent him one of those funny post cards. The card shows two monkeys playing billiards and under the short monkey was written "Robinson" and under the tall, lanky monkey "Dotson" (meaning H. J. Dotson, principal of John Simpson Junior high school.) Dotson and Robinson get together regularly for a game of billiards, but Dotson claims no knowledge of the sender of the postcard. Dotson has a tall build and Robinson, of course, is short.

989 Aliens Registered Here, Homberger Announces.

Postmaster H. E. Homberger estimated today that the total number of aliens to register at the postoffice before registration closes Dec. 26 will exceed an earlier estimate of 1,000.

Homberger said that at the close of last week 989 aliens had been registered and fingerprinted at the postoffice and that large numbers had come into the office this week for application blanks.

With the Ohio State Reformatory, the County infirmary and Richland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium yet to be registered by officials, Homberger stated that the number of aliens to register in this area should exceed 1200.

Homberger urged today that aliens in the area who have not applied for application blanks do so at once to avoid a last minute jam.

SCHOOLS GET FUNDS DEC. 1

Mansfield and Richland County Will Receive $92,499 In Foundation Money.

Mansfield and Richland county schools will receive a total of $92,499 in state school foundation money about Dec. 1, but the distribution of state teachers' and school employes' funds for the final quarter of 1940 probably will not be made until after Jan. 1, E. N. Dietrich, state education director, said today.

In the quarterly allocation of school operating funds Mansfield schools will get $45,068 and the county rural schools, $47,431. Shelby schools, in a special district, will receive $18,568.

Dietrich said the teachers' retirement money will be held up because the state school program lacks the money with which to pay it.

He explained that the school foundation program appropriation for 1940 was approximately $18,200,000, while about $49,300,000 was required, leaving a difference of $1,115,727, or the amount of the quarterly teachers' retirement allocation.

CATS OF HIGH AND LOW DEGREE PREENED FOR FELINE FROLICS

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO—Cats from fire stations, warehouses and factories were being preened today for one of the biggest social events since the Mother Goose pussycat journeyed to London to visit a queen.

The affair was the 31st annual Beresford Cat club show where lowly pets and mascots will have a chance to rub whiskers with the blueblood of the feline world.

Marty IV, mascot of the world's largest building, the Merchandise Mart of Chicago, will climb from his home 60 feet underground to occupy a cage adjoining a blue-eyed white Persian. Marty has spent most of his life in the building's sub-basement boiler room.

Strato Lizzie, mascot of the TWA airline, was booked to fly in from Kansas City.

Skippy, a cat of no particular breed, planned to drop into sport his humane society medal. He won it when he woke his mistress, Mrs. Anne Augustin of Chicago, in a gas filled room and saved her from asphyxiation.

Another lowly entry is a Chicago fire station mascot whose masters have taught him how to slide down a pole when a alarm sounds.

TAFT TO ASK ROLL CALL ON LABOR CHANGE

Demands Smith Amendments Be Taken Out of Their Pigeon-Hole.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— The senate passed the controversial Logan-Walter bill today, 27 to 25. The bill designed to facilitate appeals to the courts from rulings of executive agencies of the federal government, already has passed the house. It goes back there, however, for action on several amendments.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The senate began debate today on the Walter-Logan bill "to regulate the regulators" and its supporters predicted that it would be passed within the week, despite reports that President Roosevelt would veto it.

It was passed by the house several months ago. It would subject the rulings and regulations of quasi-judicial agencies, such as the national labor relations board, to court review. Its opponents charge it is designed to hamstring executive agencies.

The senate education and labor committee took up the nomination of Dr. Harry A. Millis to be chairman of the national labor relations board and a demand for a vote on the house-approved amendments to the labor act.

Sen. Robert A. Taft, (R-O.), will ask for a roll call vote on the Smith amendments to the labor act which have been pigeon-holed in the committee for several months. He said Chairman Elbert Thomas was not opposed to a vote. Several other members said they did not believe the amendments would be reported to the senate.

Sen. Carl A. Hatch (D.—N. M.) floor leader for the Walter-Logan bill, was "very happy" over the 34 to 21 vote by which the senate decided yesterday to consider the bill.

Hatch said he had heard "reports" that the anti-lynching bill might be offered as a rider. Such a move would be tantamount to defeat, because it would inspire southern members to filibuster.

ACCIDENTAL SHOT

STEUBENVILLE —(U.P.)— A shotgun shell swept into a fireplace exploded and seriously wounded Mrs. Richard Bell, 32, at nearby Salt Run.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Miss Midnight's Diary.

Dear Diary: I have always been of the not-very-startling opinion that certain things were just made for each other: caviar and champagne—stormy weather and a blazing fireplace—hot dogs and mustard—strawberries and cream.

Besides these manumate combinations, there exist characters around town who are simply twain, and I always feel delighted to observe the wonderful moment when people who are Perfect Together gravitate toward each other for the first time.

That's why I am so pleased because Martha Raye and Rags Ragland have at long last found each other.

Martha is, to perpetrate a colossal understatement, high spirited. In fact, when she is merely boisterous she is not quite up to par. And Rags—Rags is a creature of completely cyclonic animation.

Both of them have read and even heard mention of the word inhibition, but they have not the slightest idea of what it means.

Raye and Raglund romped into Leon and Eddie's Saturday evening and immediately stood the cafe on the ear. They arose from their chairs, took to the dance arena, and engaged in an exhibition conga which would have frightened the entire population of the Argentine. As the terpsichore grew hot, Martha tossed off her hat, Rags divested himself of his jacket. Then Martha kicked off her shoes. And Rags kicked off his shoes. The subsequent frenzy was something to behold.

I may be premature, but I think this quiet little romance will bear watching.

A trifle more subdued, but quite a bit more ornamental were Gloria and Bob Topping, who wandered in dressed as elegantly as if they had just come from opening night at the opera.

Glamor girl Gloria glittered with gems, and her ermine coat swept the floor quite literally, with the result that the night porter had very little trouble Making With the Broom when dawn rolled around.

Nancy Kelly, of Hollywood, is causing great eye-popping and neck-craning wherever she goes because of her back. Intimate friends spot her in the thickest crowd because of it, and say: "Oh, Nancy's here. I see her back."

This instantaneous recognition of Nancy's spinal column by practically anyone in the cafe set is a result of Nancy's specially designed evening dresses, which are made to show more epidermis from shoulder to hip than has been revealed by any other visiting celebrity from the celluloids to date, and include in the revelation her ribs.

This is achieved by a large diamond-shaped cut-out in the back of the dress, and it is this unique diamond which makes people take a quick look and say:

"There goes Nancy."

When I last talked to Nancy she said that Edmond O'Brien, to whom she has been intermittently engaged, was on the point of flying here from the coast to see her, in what she described as a big romantic gesture.

Until his plane got here, she seemed uncommonly content to rhumba in the arms of Mr. Francis X. Farrell.

Playwright Freddy Finklehoffe strolled into Barney Gallant's Monday night and spotted Robert Sherwood, Elmer Rice and Sam Behrman all sitting together. Finklehoffe went directly to the telephone and called William Saroyan in San Francisco to tell him who was there.

Saroyan listened to the celebrated roll call.

"Get out of there, Freddy," he ordered. "I won't have you mixing with amateurs."

Later that night (one might even call it early the next morning) Spivy's Roof was made lively by Frank Shields, Gypsy Rose Lee, Joe E. Brown, Adelaide Moffett, and the hand-holding Libby Holman and Ralph Holmes.

Spivy chatted for quite a while with a charming elderly lady, who could be heard by eavesdroppers to say:

"So the plane was grounded in Albuquerque at 3 in the morning. The hostess told Norma that she'd have to get out of her berth, because the plane was going to be put in the hangar until the weather ahead cleared. But Norma told the hostess she preferred to remain in bed, even though she smothered in the hangar. So they let her sleep and kept a door open for her."

The charming elderly lady was Norma Shearer's mother.

The hush in Monte Carlo the other night was caused by all the gentlemen in the room who were holding their breath.

They were holding their breath because Simone Simon came in wearing a red evening dress which started low and had no straps to hold it up. Most gentlemen do not understand that these gowns stay up by more than a mere coincidence and several fellows in Simone's vicinity were so nervous that $16-a-bottle champagne was being spilled on the tablecloths.

Calmest gentleman around was Simone's escort, Al Bloomingdale. Stop me if I am wrong, but I believe that is a new combination.

Walter L. Beckley, A. L. "Cap" Allen, George Deaffin, Floyd Dent, Fred Miller and other draft board workers at the bus depot to see the draftees "off to war" this morning and insisting that they'd love to be going too, if it weren't for the inconveniences.

Out of Bowl Games

Minnesota Will Not Play As Conference Does Not Approve.

By EARL HILLIGAN

CHICAGO —(AP)—Neither Minnesota's championship Gophers nor any other Western conference football team will participate in this winter's Rose Bowl game, according to sources close to conference athletic affairs.

As reports from other sections of the country today continued to mention Minnesota as a possible Rose Bowl participant, usually reliable observers here contended:

1. That the Western conference, at its scheduled meeting Dec. 6-7, would not approve conference participation in the bowl game and,

2. That even should such participation be approved, Minnesota would not be the team to represent the Big Ten in the gridiron extravaganza Jan. 1 at Pasadena, Calif.

For one thing, Minnesota went definitely on record last Oct. 17 against conference participation in post season games. For another, it is pointed out, invitations to participate in the game are not presented unless it is known in advance, after "feelers" have gone out, that the invitation would be accepted.

Wisconsin, in addition to Minnesota, formally has gone on record against post season games. Purdue's faculty yesterday voted against the Rose Bowl idea, and Northwestern and Illinois are known to be opposed to it. Thus five schools are believed to be in opposition a majority inasmuch as Chicago having abandoned the sport, is not expected to vote on the proposition.

Ohio State, Indiana and Michigan reportedly favor conference participation, while Iowa's board in control of athletics, according to Dr. Karl E. Leib, its chairman, is "heartily in favor" of allowing Minnesota to go to the Rose Bowl Michigan, it was reported, will vote on the question Saturday.

There was a strong feeling here that if the conference unexpectedly approved the idea, Michigan would represent the Big Ten. Michigan lost only to Minnesota this season, dropping a 7-6 decision.

* * *

Last Sept. 7, the conference faculty committee postponed action on the Rose Bowl question. Those close to the picture here contend that deferment killed any chance of the circuit having a representative in this winter's Rose Bowl contest.

County Cage Teams Open 1940-41 Season Tonight

Three Richland county high school basketball teams lift the curtain on their 1940-41 season tonight. Butler high entertains Havesville while Bellville plays host to Howard and Plymouth meets North Fairfield at Plymouth. Both are non-league contests. The league swings into action Friday night with a three-game program, Lexington goes to Bellville, Butler meets Ontario at Butler and Union invades Lucas.

Tonight's battle between the two clubs is much more intense with the boys doing plenty of talking from opposite sides of the fence.

Marion, the Cross City, is one of the undefeated teams in the Ohio conference league for the past season and last season the Bees won the conference championship.

This year, Brother Bun is already one up on Brother Bill, the Reds having whipped the Barons, 4-2, last Sunday in Providence. The Cleveland coach, however, is hoping for revenge on the coming Sabbath.

Erstwhile Crestline Gridder on U-P Club

By ROBERT OLDS

COLUMBUS—(UP)—Four of the state's top-flight college elevens today placed two men each on the first team of the All-Ohio conference football squad chosen by the conference coaches for the United Press.

Wittenberg, mythical conference champions with a perfect record in eight games, Muskingum, Ohio Northern and Kent State, all among the first seven teams in the conference race, landed two places. Case, Heidelberg and Denison were the remaining schools with players on the first string honor eleven.

Dave Evans, husky Muskingum tackle, took his place among the all-time "greats" of the Ohio conference when he was named to the first team for the third year.

Dave Evans, Muskingum tackle, and George Keel, Ohio Northern quarterback, were the only players to repeat as first string selections from the 1939 team.

A close race in the voting for ends edged Roy Burkhart of Denison out of the first string spot he gained last year. Burkhart was tumbled onto the second team by Winslow (Wink) Evans, Muskinkum, and Jimmy Jones, Kent State, who grabbed the coveted top spots.

Two brothers—Wink and Dave Evans of Muskingum—were named to the first team.

To Johnny Kostyo, Wittenberg's ace running back and the state's leading scorer, went the honor of polling the most votes. Close behind Kostyo in the tabulations was Keel, pint-sized quarterback from Ohio Northern.

The coaches showed agreement for the backfield positions. Kostyo, Keel and Mickey Mittiga, Kent State's leading runner and second in the state's individual scoring race, all made the first eleven with room to spare. Norman Lymangrover, Wittenberg, landed the fullback spot in a close vote.

Louis Cellini, former Crestline star of Heidelberg, was the only sophomore named to the first team.

Ed Chatlain, erstwhile Mansfield high football and basketball star, who is a varsity end with the undefeated Wittenberg club, was named at an end position on the second team.

Marion Player Named

Stephenson Elected Captain Of 1941 Ohio State Football Team.

COLUMBUS — (AP) —Ohio State university's official farewell to the none-too-successful 1940 football season was a parting marked by tears, laughter and applause.

The applause was for Jack W. Stephenson, Buckeye right tackle for two years, who was elected captain for 1941. The big lineman is a Marion product and is a junior in the college of education.

Twenty-two members of the Buckeye squad received letters as faculty members and state officials promised each other, the team and 700 guests at the annual appreciation banquet last night, "We'll show 'em next year."

Coach Francis A. Schmidt shed the tears. When members of the team presented him with a gold-plated trophy, he broke down and sobbed: "This is the happiest moment in my life."

"I made mistakes and the team made mistakes," he said. "But we'll show 'em next year."

Ohio won half of its eight games this year. Pittsburgh, Purdue, Indiana and Illinois fell before the Buckeyes, but Minnesota, Northwestern, Cornell and Michigan were too tough.

L. W. St. John, Ohio athletic director, saw sunshine in the average attendance for home games—over 60,000.

"The gate receipts showed that the Bucks have a spirit that the public likes and wants to see," he declared.

Gov. John W. Bricker praised the squad in a short talk and offered condolences with "We can't all win."

"Wait until next year," said Ohio State's new president, Howard Bevis. "There's a new day coming for State."

* * *

The Ohio State Journal Quarterback club recognized Leslie Horvath, Cleveland halfback, as the most outstanding sophomore of the year, and gave him a trophy to prove it.

Michigan Predominates INS All-Big Ten Football Team

CHICAGO —(INS)— Although the University of Michigan did not win the western conference football title, the Wolverines predominate the International News Service all-conference team announced today, with four men. Minnesota, the champion, has three men. Northwestern two, with Ohio State and Wisconsin placing one each.

With a preponderance of good backs, the selection of the all-star backfield presented a problem. There was no question insofar as the left halfback spot was concerned—Tom Harmon, the Gary, Ind., flash getting the call with a few hundred votes to spare.

George Franck of Minnesota is given the right halfback spot, with Bruce Smith, his teammate, running a close second. Injuries kept Bill DeCorrevont, Northwestern flash, from all-star consideration.

From all angles three fullbacks stood out during the campaign just closed -- Bob Westfall of Michigan, Bill Green of Iowa and George Paskvan of Wisconsin. There will be some criticism attached to placing three Michigan men in the all-conference backfield, but it is obviously unfair to take any credit away from Westfall merely because Evashevski and Harmon happened to be excellent players.

The International News Service all conference first and second teams follow:

Minnesota Will Not Play As Conference Does Not Approve.

By EARL HILLIGAN

CHICAGO —(AP)—Neither Minnesota's championship Gophers nor any other Western conference football team will participate in this winter's Rose Bowl game, according to sources close to conference athletic affairs.

As reports from other sections of the country today continued to mention Minnesota as a possible Rose Bowl participant, usually reliable observers here contended:

1. That the Western conference, at its scheduled meeting Dec. 6-7, would not approve conference participation in the bowl game and,

2. That even should such participation be approved, Minnesota would not be the team to represent the Big Ten in the gridiron extravaganza Jan 1 at Pasadena, Calif.

For one thing, Minnesota went definitely on record last Oct. 17 against conference participation in post season games. For another, it is pointed out, invitations to participate in the game are not presented unless it is known in advance, after "feelers" have gone out, that the invitation would be accepted.

Wisconsin, in addition to Minnesota, formally has gone on record against post season games. Purdue's faculty yesterday voted against the Rose Bowl idea, and Northwestern and Illinois are known to be opposed to it. Thus, five schools are believed to be in opposition—a majority inasmuch as Chicago, having abandoned the sport, is not expected to vote on the proposition.

Ohio State, Indiana and Michigan reportedly favor conference participation while Iowa's board in control of athletics, according to Dr. Karl E. Leib, its chairman, is "heartily in favor" of allowing Minnesota to go to the Rose Bowl. Michigan, it was reported, will vote on the question Saturday.

There was a strong feeling here that if the conference unexpectedly approved the idea, Michigan would represent the Big Ten. Michigan lost only to Minnesota this season, dropping a 7-6 decision.

Last Sept. 7, the conference faculty committee postponed action on the Rose Bowl question. Those close to the picture here contend that deferment killed any chance of the circuit having a representative in this winter's Rose Bowl contest.

Taking two out of three falls, Marlino Angelo defeated the Black Panther in the main bout of the weekly wrestling show at the Saprano-Doehla Athletic club last night.

Angelo won the first fall and after losing the second to the Panther, came back to cop the final.

* * *

Angelo took the first fall after holding the Panther for more than half the time with an arm lock and took the final fall by using the same tactics.

In a fast semi-final match, Burt Ruby won over Tony Leoni, taking the first and final falls.

'Speedy' Martin was matched with Emery Zahn, known as the "Flying Dutchman," in the preliminary bout, both going the full time for a draw.

Young, bowling with the American Legion team, put together games of 214, 222 and 203 for his score as his club lost two games to the Commercial Managers. Both are in the Club league.

Others breaking the 600 were Eddie Medei 620, Art Holborn, 626.

Seeks Revenge Against Young On Fight Card

Mansfield Welterweight Clashes With Akron Youth; Carbetta In Feature Match.

By CHARLES MARTIN, News-Journal Sports Editor.

ONE of Mansfield's best welterweights has an important task to accomplish in the Friendly House AAU boxing show Friday night . . . and he's determined to do it.

The lad is Joe Sauer and he goes against Oren Young of Akron in one of the three-round bouts on the 10-match program at the Settlement.

Joe, who started his boxing career early last year, has been progressing by leaps and bounds, and he thinks he can beat his rugged opponent Friday.

These two youngsters tangled in a bout at Akron recently and Young emerged with the decision—much to the surprise of the fans and sports writers.

Capable of landing a knockout punch at any opportunity, Joe, a brother of Al, gave the Akronite a beating and he is out to do it again.

His lightning left jab kept Young on his heels for three rounds, but the Akron lad got in several telling blows and the judges awarded Young the verdict.

While this match will be watched with interest, two other feature attractions may steal the spotlight.

In the top event of the evening, Paul Carbetta, Mansfield's leading flyweight, trades punches with Paul Reed of Akron. It will be a five-round affair.

Carbetta was to meet Buddy Smallwood of Akron, 1940 Cleveland Golden Gloves champion, but a last-minute postponement forced Friendly House officials to secure a substitute.

Reed comes here well recommended and should provide Carbetta with a busy session. Reed is being groomed for Golden Gloves competition next spring.

The other heat brings together Al Sauer, Mansfield middleweight, and Jack Kinsey of Akron. The lads were in the Cleveland tourney last spring, but couldn't get past the semi-finals.

Al is a crowd pleaser and is willing to mix punches with the best of them. He has been idle for several months because of a broken hand, but is in his prime for this melee. It will be a three-rounder.

* * *

Tickets for the fight may be secured at the City News, Daley's Cafe, Corner Lunch, Ritz Nite club, Hunt's News depot and the Friendly House. Reserved and bleacher seats are 75 cents, while general admission seats go at 40 cents.

The complete fight card follows:

MAIN EVENT
(Five Rounds)

Paul Carbetta 112, Mansfield vs Paul Reed, 118, Akron.

SEMI FINAL
(Three Rounds)

Al Sauer, 165, Mansfield vs. Jack Kinsey 165, Akron.

THREE ROUND MATCHES

Joe Sauer, 147, Mansfield vs. Oren Young, 147, Akron.

Ed Tally, 125, Crestline vs. Eddie Johnson 124, Marion.

Roosevelt Johnson, 135, Marion vs. Fred Barnhart, 135, Akron.

Bob Snyder, 135 Loudonville vs. Ray Forbes, 135, Marion.

Frank Truly, 133, Friendly House vs. Frank Pittenger 134, Loudonville.

Ralph Harriston, 118, Friendly House vs. Lloyd Holt, 118, Marion.

Orlando Carbetta 90 Friendly House vs. Billy Snyder, 90, Friendly House.

Joe Burke, 115 Friendly House vs. Leonard Wadell 115, Friendly House.

Mike Sauer, 135 Friendly House (opponent to be named later).

30 Players Report at Shelby For Basketball Squads.

SHELBY—Thirty members of last year's varsity and reserve basketball squads reported for practice Monday at Shelby high school for the first call issued by Coach William Query for basketball candidates.

Other players are expected to answer a call for candidates to be made later this week when a night squad is started, Query revealed.

* * *

Four varsity players from last year are on the team this year. They are Glenn Fought and Dave Clark forwards; and Bill Daugherty and Junior Keiser, guards. Other promising members of last year's reserve squad are Bob Laubie, all NCO fullback; Dick Whitney and Tom May.

Shelby will play its first game Dec. 13 with Crestline high school here.

Cook Vs. Cook In Hockey Tilt

Barons, Rangers, Managed By Brothers, Clash Sunday.

CLEVELAND — Once upon a time the Cook brothers played on the same line for the New York Rangers and wrote many pages of hockey history.

Today, Brother Bill, the left winger, coaches the Cleveland Barons and Brother Bun, the right winger, pilots the Providence Reds.

And whenever Cleveland and Providence icers tangle, as they will Sunday night at the Arena, the rivalry between the two clubs is much more intense with the brothers glaring at each other from opposite sides of the rink.

At that, the Cooks have sort of monopolized things in the American league for the past three seasons. Three years ago, Providence won the title, the next year Cleveland came through in the finals and last season the Reds again won the flag.

This year, Brother Bun is already one up on Brother Bill, the Reds having whipped the Barons, 4-2, last Sunday in Providence. The Cleveland coach, however, is hoping for revenge on the coming Sabbath.

The one bright spot of the Providence defeat, as far as the Barons are concerned, is the fact Reds Poly Don Pearson has finally been put into the scoring column.

Marion Player Named

Stephenson Elected Captain Of 1941 Ohio State Football Team.

COLUMBUS — (AP) —Ohio State university's official farewell to the none-too-successful 1940 football season was a parting marked by tears, laughter and applause.

The applause was for Jack W. Stephenson, Buckeye right tackle for two years, who was elected captain for 1941. The big lineman is a Marion product and is a junior in the college of education.

Twenty-two members of the Buckeye squad received letters as faculty members and state officials promised each other, the team and 700 guests at the annual appreciation banquet last night, "We'll show 'em next year."

Coach Francis A. Schmidt shed the tears. When members of the team presented him with a gold-plated trophy, he broke down and sobbed: "This is the happiest moment in my life."

"I made mistakes and the team made mistakes," he said. "But we'll show 'em next year."

Ohio won half of its eight games this year. Pittsburgh, Purdue, Indiana and Illinois fell before the Buckeyes, but Minnesota, Northwestern, Cornell and Michigan were too tough.

L. W. St. John, Ohio athletic director, saw sunshine in the average attendance for home games—over 60,000.

"The gate receipts showed that the Bucks have a spirit that the public likes and wants to see," he declared.

Gov. John W. Bricker praised the squad in a short talk and offered condolences with "We can't all win."

"Wait until next year," said Ohio State's new president, Howard Bevis. "There's a new day coming for State."

* * *

The Ohio State Journal Quarterback club recognized Leslie Horvath, Cleveland halfback, as the most outstanding sophomore of the year, and gave him a trophy to prove it.

Michigan Predominates INS All-Big Ten Football Team

CHICAGO —(INS)— Although the University of Michigan did not win the western conference football title, the Wolverines predominate the International News Service all-conference team announced today, with four men. Minnesota, the champion, has three men, Northwestern two, with Ohio State and Wisconsin placing one each.

With a preponderance of good backs, the selection of the all-star backfield presented a problem. There was no question insofar as the left halfback spot was concerned—Tom Harmon, the Gary, Ind., flash getting the call with a few hundred votes to spare.

George Franck of Minnesota is given the right halfback spot, with Bruce Smith, his teammate, running a close second. Injuries kept Bill DeCorrevont, Northwestern flash, from all-star consideration.

From all angles three fullbacks stood out during the campaign just closed — Bob Westfall of Michigan, Bill Green of Iowa and George Paskvan of Wisconsin. There will be some criticism attached to placing three Michigan men in the all-conference backfield, but it is obviously unfair to take any credit away from Westfall merely because Evashevski and Harmon happened to be excellent players.

The International News Service all conference first and second teams follow:

PAM STARTED OUT BRAVELY BUT GRADUALLY HER NERVOUSNESS WORE OFF AND DROWSINESS OVER- CAME HER-----
SHE FOUGHT HARD TO STAY AWAKE, BUT THE CALM PEACEFULNESS OF THE NIGHT WAS TOO MUCH FOR A HEALTHY, TIRED BODY, AND SHE FELL FAST ASLEEP!

SOME STOCKS GAIN LEVELS IN MART TODAY

Receiving Support Are Steels, Motors, and Rails; Bonds Up; Commodities Steady.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Selected stocks plodded toward higher price levels in today's market but many leaders remained in a rut.

Supported at one time or another were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Chesapeake & Ohio, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Boeing and United Aircraft.

Bonds pushed up briskly in spots. Commodities were fairly steady.

Interpreted as constructive marketwise was the statement of federal reserve member banks in 101 cities disclosing the eighth consecutive weekly increase in commercial, industrial and agricultural loans.

Holders of steels continued to express satisfaction not only with the ability of mill operations to maintain a record capacity rate but with word from producing centers that buying of the hard metal still was exceeding shipments. It was believed November purchases would be well ahead of October.

Steered Away From Axis Pact By Russia After Others Join Alliance.

coming to Berlin to sign a pact, as it had been predicted they would.

No reason was given, but it was understood that during his secret trip to Germany 10 days ago, King Boris had told Adolf Hitler he would not sign a pact with the Axis powers unless Russia approved. Hence, the belief was that Russia had disapproved, and that if Bulgarian officials did sign an Axis pact later, it would indicate that Russia had awarded Germany a free hand here.

Russia's influence is strong among the Bulgarians and most diplomats believed that for the time being, Russia would keep Bulgaria outside the Axis sphere, knowing that Germany would hesitate to antagonize Russia while she is preoccupied with Britain.

Bulgarian Move Cheers British

LONDON— (AP) —Great Britain made a bid today for Bulgaria's neutrality in the European war with a promise that Britain will strive to insure Bulgaria's integrity and independence in any eventual peace settlement.

R. A. Butler, undersecretary for foreign affairs, said in a written statement in the house of commons:

"Lord Halifax (the foreign secretary) welcomes this opportunity of stating that, provided Bulgaria does not join or assist, either actively or passively, the enemies of Great Britain, or attack her allies, it is the intention of his majesty's government to do their best to insure that in any eventual peace settlement to which Great Britain is a party, the integrity and independence of Bulgaria shall be fully respected."

Lectures In City

GERALD L. K. SMITH

GERALD L. SMITH TO SPEAK HERE

Anti-War Crusader to Give Public Lecture at Senior High School Dec. 2.

Gerald L. K. Smith of Detroit, national chairman of the Committee of 1,000,000 will give a public lecture in Mansfield Monday, Dec. 2 in the Senior high school auditorium.

Smith who is heading a crusade to keep America out of war will lecture on "War-Mongers and the Fifth Column," during which he will interpret the "white paper" recently released by Congressman Martin Dies on subversive activities of German and Italian agents in the United States.

His appearance in Mansfield is under the auspices of committee members in the Mansfield area.

The Committee of 1,000,000 is sponsoring a campaign to enlist 10,000,000 signers to a petition to keep America out of a foreign war.

A "mothers petition" which the committee plans to present to congress reads:

"We join with the mothers in America in petitioning the congress of the United States to exert every effort possible and within reason necessary to keep America out of all foreign wars. We favor a national defense second to none. We are willing to make any sacrifice necessary in money and men to defend America, but we are opposed to giving our money and our men to settle the political quarrels of foreign nations.

As further protection to our sons at home we petition congress to remove all Nazi-Communists from government payrolls and to outlaw the Communist party.

Admission to the auditorium will be free.

CHAPTER VI

The subtle fragrance drifted through the night as sweet and penetrating as the strains of a violin. The blossoms, the twinkling lights of Hollywood and the waning moon. It was all like a stage setting. Glory mused, savoring in her thin negligee. One of those days the curtain was going up on the second act. What then? She had already found excitement and glamour. Would she find success? Would her name ever be sparkling in big letters over Grauman's Chinese theater? And would she find romance, too? Would she find her dream sweetheart? Glory flung back her head and took a deep breath of the cold night air.

"I wonder if I'm missing something by not being in love?" she thought.

Glory became increasingly fond of Mark Spencer. He was with her every available moment but instead of taking her to familiar night spots they went for drives in the country, or sometimes down to the wind-swept beach for a fish dinner. Mark took her into Olivera street where the Spanish restaurants and colorful music thrilled her Mid-Western heart. Mark showed her the mountains, the desert, the seashore, the old missions. It was a relief after the glitter and glamour and strain of Scottie's campaign to spend pleasant hours late in the afternoon with Mark. Glory's school closed at twelve and almost every day Mark managed to leave early.

One night he took her to have dinner with his father and sister. Scottie had reported that the elder Spencer was a "stuffed shirt," a "complete snob," but to Glory he appeared a quiet, nervous man, tall like his son but with gray hair. He had little or nothing to say to his family or Glory. Mark's mother was dead and a housekeeper presided over the big house. Marian, Mark's little sister, was a spoiled sulky, girl of Glory's age. It was easy to see that the three of them were not congenial. There was an obvious strain at the dinner table.

"Something is wrong here," thought Glory with a flash of intuition.

After dinner Marian drew her into a corner of the huge fire-lit living room. "Are you an actress?" she asked curiously.

"Not yet," Glory answered.

"I wanted to be," Marian confided, "but dad wouldn't let me." She added tactlessly, "he doesn't approve of any one connected with the movies."

* * *

Mark's father departed shortly after dinner for a business appointment. Marian went to a party with a callow-looking youth. And Mark and Glory were left alone in front of the fireplace. Glory loved the high ceilinged room with its heavy, massive furniture. She settled herself comfortably in a big chair.

"Happy?" asked Mark, knocking the ashes from his pipe.

"Perfectly happy," Glory answered.

Mark's dog, a cocker spaniel, rested contentedly at his master's feet.

"I have to be home at ten," Glory said. "There's a party at one of the producer's homes. Scottie's going to take me."

"I never go to parties like that. They bore me."

"Yes I know. Scottie said he was surprised to see you at the night club the time I met you—and alone too," Glory teased.

But there was no hint of humor in Mark's reply. "I was looking for some one," he said flatly. And Glory had an uncanny feeling that he was concealing something.

"You're not ready to give up yet?" he asked.

"My career? I haven't even started yet."

Her companion sighed. "And so all those days we've had together haven't had any effect?"

Glory patted his hand affectionately. "I've loved every minute of it, Mark. But my work, well that's something else again."

"This is my idea of happiness, Glory." Mark stretched out his long legs in front of the fire. "Being here with you this way. There is contentment and peace here. Don't you feel it?"

Yes, Glory felt it. She was always happy and relaxed with Mark. She didn't have to be "putting on an act." She didn't have to worry about her make-up or her clothes or hair. She was just Glory Stevens. Not the Glory Stevens who must be seen at the "right places" in trailing gowns with Scottie Weston.

Mark's hand closed over hers. "You still want to see your name in lights, don't you, Glory?"

"Yes. I've got to be a success, Mark. It's what I've wanted all my life."

There was silence as they both gazed into the dancing flames, then Mark said, "And what about your personal life? Don't you ever expect to get married, and have a home—children?"

Glory laughed. "Oh I suppose so someday. But I'm young, Mark. I don't need any personal life yet."

Mark smiled. "Someday I'm going to make you eat those words."

Then suddenly he changed the conversation. He told her about his college days in the East, the year he had spent in Europe, some of his more interesting cases—and the minutes passed swiftly into hours. Glory had almost forgotten the time until the clock in the hall chimed ten.

"Good heavens, Mark, I'll have to go! Scottie will be furious if I keep him waiting. Tonight is important."

"It's been important to me, too," Mark said, smiling down at her.

For one mad moment Glory wondered if this could be love. But no of course not! Love was something that thrilled you. Something glamorous and exciting! Mark was a grand person but she did not love him.

Glory wore black chiffon to the party that night. It was the most sophisticated dress that Van had sent with a tight bodice, whirling skirt and tiny rhinestone straps. The party was a typically Hollywood affair. Beautiful women, extravagantly gowned. Lavish floral displays and champagne iced in elaborate silver containers.

"Max Cavell is here," Scottie told her.

It was the first time Glory had seen Cavell since the day she lost her job at the studio—but he spoke to her. She had hoped that Mona Greer would not be present, but this was a party for one of the new stars from her studio so she probably would be.

"Your pal's here," Scottie announced, as if reading her mind. "Let's hope she doesn't make another scene."

"She's probably forgotten all about me by this time."

"That's what you think!" interposed Scottie. "That hellcat never forgets a grudge."

* * *

Mona wore a superb lame gown but there were deep circles under her eyes and her manner was nervous. All the make-up in Hollywood could not cover the fatigue and ill temper in her face.

"Will I ever look like that?" Glory wondered.

"Oh, Scottie, isn't that Allan Rhodes with her?" she asked.

"The heartbrob of a million women—himself," Scottie agreed cynically. "You'll usually find them together."

Obviously Mona did not recognize Glory, for which the girl was grateful. Presently Scottie excused himself to make a telephone call and Glory wandered into the ballroom where a Hawaiian orchestra was playing.

She met Van who complained, "My head is splitting! Sit down and talk to me."

His eyes took in Glory's appearance with satisfaction.

"You're a walking advertisement for me. Gorgeous!"

"Your clothes would make any girl gorgeous."

Van sighed. "But I lead a dog's life in this town, Glory, a dog's life. I tell you!"

Glory had to smile. Van took himself so seriously. But she was thunderstruck at his next remark.

"From now on I'm doing all your clothes, designing them myself. No more second-hand stuff. Come to the studio tomorrow and I'll take your measurements so we can make a dummy."

"But Van, you do that only for the stars."

"Well, darling mark my words, you're going to be one eventually. I've been telling Max Cavell for weeks that you were the most beautiful girl in Hollywood."

Glory's brain was swimming. Max Cavell? Van! Tell me! What are you talking about?"

Van sat up abruptly. "Ye gods! Hasn't Scottie told you?"

"Told me what?" persisted Glory, excitedly.

But Van had relapsed into the corner of the divan.

"My head is splitting!" he repeated plaintively, ignoring her question."

Glory could see that there was no more information to be gotten from him. She looked around for Scottie but he was talking to a group of men so she seated herself in a corner and waited for him to finish his conversation. When he joined her, she asked eagerly, "Scottie Weston, are you keeping something from me?"

Her eyes were shining with anticipation.

"Please tell me what it is," she begged. "Van thought I knew—he almost told me himself."

Scottie sat down and lit a cigarette before he replied.

"I wanted to spring it as a surprise," he said, smiling at her eagerness.

Glory waited impatiently for him to continue.

"Please, Scottie, don't keep me in suspense!"

He took her hands in his and looked seriously into her lovely young face.

"I would have told you before, Glory, but I wasn't absolutely certain until I talked with Cavell tonight. You've gotten a break, baby! You're to have a screen test on Thursday morning! It's all set!"

Tears stood in Glory's blue eyes. At last! At last her big chance had come!

SIX FROM CITY LEAVE TODAY FOR TRAINING

All Hope to Pass Physical Exams In Columbus Then Go to Mississippi.

pleted in time to permit his leaving with the others today.

The six boys who left this morning were: David H. Boals, 568 Highland avenue; Howard C. Ripper, 35 Huffman avenue; David L. Lutz, 26 West Arch street, all from Board 1; Fred L. Martin, 573 Wayne street; James G. Condos, 154 Seventh avenue, and George J. Lump, 321 First avenue.

The boys and their parents, together with members of the two draft boards and friends were at the bus terminal a half hour before the big bus left the station on the first leg of their journey which eventually will end at Camp Shelby, Miss., according to present plans.

There was little wise cracking as the boys took their leaving seriously, but all of them admitted there was something of a thrill about it, despite the fact that the year's training is a duty.

Young Boals, who finished pre-medical school at Ohio State university this year, added a note of humor to the farewells when he admitted that he had three bananas in his pocket which he intended to eat just before he is weighed at Columbus. He is three pounds under the required weight but believes the deficit can be made up by eating bananas and drinking large quantities of water shortly before he goes on the scales.

"I don't mind going to camp," he said, "in fact, I'm prepared to like it. The main thing is to get it over so I can settle down to a job. I think all of the boys subject to draft have a sort of unsettled feeling, and will have until they are on their way to camp."

Martin said the trip to camp was "sort of a birthday present." He was 29 years old yesterday. "I can honestly say I've been looking forward to the training period, and I only hope I pass the physical exam at Columbus."

Two of the boys are 21. Young Ripper is the youngest of the group for he celebrated his 21st birthday on Nov. 16, registration day. An employe of the advertising department of Tappan Stove company, he enlisted "to get it over with."

"My company gave me a leave of one year and 40 days and my job will be waiting when I come back, so I'm going to make the most of my year of training. I'll certainly be benefitted by it, and in return I hope to give all I've got to the government's program.

Condos was 21 last May. "I volunteered because I didn't have a job and there was no point in waiting to be called. I don't mind the year a bit and all I ask is a chance at a job when I've finished my training.

Lump, 23, was another who had a leave of absence from his company. "I'm a metal finisher at Westinghouse and I don't have to worry about a job when I get back. This will be my first experience in camp of any kind and I'm all set for whatever comes. I think there will be fun as well as work and training."

There was a bit of romance in the farewells to Dale Lutz, for beside his father and mother was his fiance, Miss Sara Simpson, R. D. 1. Both mother and sweetheart wept as they bid him good bye, but were good enough sports to echo his hope that he'd pass the tests in Columbus. Lutz, an employe of the Ballycat Manufacturing company, has a leave of absence for a year and 30 days.

Draft board 3 hopes to have its three draftees ready to leave here within the next few days.

The boys go to Columbus from here for final examinations, then on to Ft. Thomas, Ky., where they will be outfitted with uniforms and equipment. They expect to be in permanent camp in Mississippi next week.

The three draftees for Ashland county's first quota left yesterday. All of them were volunteers. They are Dale Edward Kime, Ashland; Ralph Lester Sturgis, Loudonville, R. D.; and Horace Allen Moon, Nova, R. D.

The second quota of men for training is scheduled to leave Jan. 2, and while exact figures have not been announced by the army, it is believed the call will be for about 8,200 from Ohio. Local draft boards will be asked to furnish anywhere from 15 to 30 men each. The state has 330 draft boards with registrants ranging from 500 to 5,500. There were 996 in the state's first quota, all of which are to be inducted in federal service by tomorrow.

Shiloh, Shelby Youths Placed on Probation for 18 Months.

Kenneth Lewis, 20, of Shiloh, and George Jewell, 18, R. D. 1, Shelby, pleaded guilty to assault charges yesterday in common pleas court and were placed on probation for 18 months by Judge C. H. Huston.

Arrested Friday night, the youths admitted threatening Deputy Sheriff G. C. Humphrey and Franklin Hollenbaugh of Shelby when they attempted to question the pair about two hit-skip accidents near Shelby. Hollenbaugh, owner of one of the cars, filed charges against them.

The youths were riding in a car which sideswiped two other automobiles without stopping, Humphrey said. Driver of the car has not been apprehended.

BRITAIN LOOKS FOR U. S. HELP

Depends on United States as Savior In Nation's Darkest Hours.

lieve there is no military damage; that only churches, hospitals, schools and tenements are hit, plus of course "slight damage" to utilities.

Bombers that hit Buckingham palace unable to hit the sprawling factories of the Midlands? Believe it if you can.

The Germans have killed thousands of civilian men, women and children without really damaging morale. They've also done damage to shipping and railroads without demoralizing the war effort.

Second, Britannia still rules the waves, but needs more American help to do it. Much of the recent staggering shipping losses can be traced to dificiencies in escort vessels.

Unless Britain can get more United States destroyers, shipping losses likely will continue at a high level because of U-boats, bombers and surface raiders.

The need for merchant vessels goes hand in hand with the need for destroyers. Britain's need will increase as spring brings an increase in U-boat virulence.

Taranto (the British raid on Italy's naval base) was a great British victory, but not for the navy, although the fleet air arm accomplished this task (reporting the crippling of three Italian battleships), because every battleship similarly is vulnerable to torpedo-carrying planes while in harbor, where they all must go sooner or later.

Third, the army is as good as the best—if properly equipped. In fighting spirit and leadership, I can testify, it is able to stand up to the Germans.

At first it was said a British offensive could be expected in 1941. Now government leaders talk of 1943 and 1944.

Fourth, Britain, the greatest financial power in history, is reaching the end of her financial tether. If she is to buy in the United States—and German bombing of industries will force her to buy in increasing quantities — the United States will have to put it on the cuff.

Fifth, British industry which started the war on an eight-hour day still has not expanded to the totalitarian level; there still are tens of thousands of unemployed and unemployment even is increasing.

Railroads still charge service men for transport, which is like having a toll bridge in a communications trench.

Mansfield Industries In Need Of Skilled Labor, State Bureau Announces.

so that new workers, or men with some shop experience can start at the bottom and learn the trade.

The Mansfield situation is no different than that in other Ohio cities, employment officials report. Inquiries for skilled labor are being made constantly by other district bureau offices.

Naturally, Mansfield cannot supply workers for out-of-town industries nor has it been able to obtain that type of labor from other cities.

In addition to calls for machinists, machine operators, welders, the employment office reports that it has calls for layout men, fitters, plumbers and structural iron workers.

Meanwhile the bureau is preparing to aid merchants in obtaining extra salespeople for the Christmas buying period. Experienced shoe salesmen, millinery clerks, both men and women will be needed and the bureau anticipates the placement of a record number of persons during December.

During October the bureau found jobs for 350 persons, an increase of 15 per cent over the previous month's total and officials believe that this figure will be surpassed next month.

tary of the Retail Merchants' association said, that Mansfield Christmas shoppers are buying better merchandise and are spending heavily for luxuries.

An extra week added to the Christmas shopping season by the advanced Thanksgiving date will mean more work for more people too, Lodde pointed out.

The anticipated holiday prosperity is a reflection of business conditions existing throughout the nation as merchants and industry feel the surge of the government's national defense program.

There will be several hundred extra clerks and other employes added to store staffs during the Christmas season, Lodde said.

Merchants are anticipating that buying will hit its full stride within the next week, with close to $1,000,000 turned into local trade channels.

With downtown stores opening their Christmas displays early, shoppers thronged through downtown stores last Friday and Saturday and an unusual volume of gift business was reported.

The majority of Mansfield stores will maintain regular store hours until the last six days before Christmas this year, Lodde said, when merchants will keep their doorse open until 9 p. m.

'TRAVEL LIGHT' DRAFTEES TOLD

Camp Shelby Men Now Wish They Hadn't Taken So Much Baggage.

Put a pair of cheap wooden clogs in that grip of yours. They'll repay you many times over, and all the splashing in the world won't hurt them.

Remember, too, that the standard bath-robe in the army is the regulation military raincoat, so you won't really need your fancy silk dressing gown!

In spite of the regulations you may not get all your clothes issued at first. We have found the following invaluable:

Extra underwear, several pairs of army socks (to be had very cheaply at any army store, and they wear like iron), a couple of white shirts to wear with your uniform when you want to dress up and go to town, a sewing kit, by all means, (known as a "housewife" in the service); and a pair of plain brown oxfords, which you will welcome as a relief from heavy army shoes and for those "dress-up" occasions that come now and then.

If you have a portable iron or a pants presser, provided it doesn't take up much room, throw that in with your duffle, too. The army doesn't pay for dry cleaning and pressing, you know, and one of these stretches the time between visits to the cleaners. Bring a compact toilet kit, too, but unless you insist, leave that lovely hand-tooled leather kit Aunt Sadie gave you last Christmas at home. Get an inexpensive one that doesn't mind the water.

At last, but decidedly not least, drop a five dollar bill, or ten or a twenty, in that bilfold of yours! Bring what you can, because the army pays only once a month, and you'll have to finance yourself until the first payday and $21 rolls around.

George Kondos, 154 Seventh avenue, cleft in the picture at the bottom, climbed aboard the big bus to tell his son, James G., to "be a good boy and take care of yourself, Jim." The boys, destined for military training for the next year, went directly to Ft. Hayes, Columbus, from here for final examinations.

Testing Time for Turkey

STORM SIGNALS are up for Turkey. Her great day draws near. With Hungary gone. Bulgaria slipping, the power of the Third Reich approaches ever nearer to the Dardanelles. Then will come the testing time. It is reassuring for the rest of the world to know that Turkish newspapers have warned their people of danger of war. The government has ordered all households to be ready for blackouts beginning Dec. 1. The Istanbul paper Yeni Sabah has this to say:

"Germany can speak to us only as equals. Thus far we understand the new order is to be a system wherein other nations take orders from Germany and Italy.

"Turkey was a free and sovereign nation when the Germans were still wild rovers in their forests, and will revolt against such slavery with all its might. Turkish leaders and politics are welded to values which the Germans consider false—the parliamentary system, courage, independence."

This is a fine, strong stand. If sustained by government and people, it means that Turkey, like Britain, will fight to the end for the principle of freedom. The establishment of martial law in European Turkey indicates such firmness.

Russia is the great puzzle. If Stalin stays out the Turks may stand as the Britons and the Greeks have stood, strong and unconquerable, handing to Hitler his third great defeat.

Americans have not always approved of Turkey. But of late years she has given a good example of progress in what is best of civilization. Americans and Britons alike must now admire her.

Pension Increases May Be Possible

THOSE who pay, as well as those who receive, should be gratified to learn that progress in sound pensioning is being made in Ohio, despite the retarding effect of visionary pension schemes foisted on the public a few years ago and still claiming some gullible adherents.

Indications now are, according to announcement from Columbus, that $40 a month maximum pensions can be paid after January 1, based on needs of beneficiaries. The present average monthly payment is about $23, which is insufficient to meet reasonable requirements of those who have no other income or help, but is in real money instead of extravagant political promises.

During November a little more than three million dollars was distributed to 131,839 old age pensioners in Ohio, an increase of 1,521 over the preceding month, but leaving several thousand applications still under investigation.

Under the present system the federal government matches state pension funds to the $40 monthly maximum and it is hoped that this point can be reached next year without sacrificing the requirement for sound financing.

Warning Against Flu Spread

WATCHING its charts, the United States Public Health Service finds the nation's influenza curve rising sharply. Officials call this to public attention not to frighten people but to give some sensible advice.

Precautionary suggestions include keeping out of crowds as much as possible, getting whatever fresh air, sunshine and exercise the daily routine permits, keeping clean internally and externally, avoiding chills and dodging persons who are coughing, sniffling or sneezing.

Public authorities are interested in a new anti-flu vaccine developed since the well-remembered epidemic of 1918. Produced in the laboratories of the Rockefeller Foundation, this vaccine has shown, in experiments, a high degree of protection against influenza.

Something of the sort is quite likely to prove effective and available before long. It will not necessarily wipe out influenza entirely, but should reduce the amount of it and put an end to epidemics. Meanwhile, obeying the doctor's orders, even in case of mild attacks, is the best way to combat both the spread of the disease and its serious complications.

To Meet Heavy Armament Costs

GOVERNMENT expenditures for defense, says Hartley W. Barclay, a Washington business man, will reach $1,000,000,000 a month next November.

By that time we should have an emergency taxation system that would take care of at least half of that as we go along. We can't leave it all for the next generation to pay—although it should be ready to pay its share if we do a good job.

And how can we pay heavier taxes? It could and should be the natural fruit of business expansion. Mr. Barclay believes that by a year and a half from now, the expansion now under way will have absorbed all the unemployed who are able to work.

That would probably make a national income somewhere around $100,000,000,000 a year, and taxes of one kind or another should be collected, in fair proportion, from all who benefit by the defense-stimulated expansion.

VACANT STATION ON THE ASSEMBLY BELT

Listen World!

G'Wan, Pretend!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

HAD a hard wallop lately. Never mind details. All God's chilluns got detail. 'Tisn't your private bad luck that counts, but how you handle it.

Take the current world, f'instance. We Americans are sitting prettiest of any nation on earth. Yet I do not know one single soul who isn't having The Miseries . . . feeling blue or frightened. Fed Up or Put Upon. So what? Where's the answer? Suddenly it came to me, in the midst of a particular bad hour.

THE GAMEST THING ANY HUMAN CAN DO WHEN THE TIMES ARE TOUGH IS, JUST PRETEND!

If you're weak, pretend you're strong.

If you're frightened, pretend you're brave.

If you're hard hit, pretend you're standing steady.

"But that's a lie!" perhaps you're saying.

No, 'tisn't. That's living . . . and giving . . . and growing up. That's what has brought us as far as we've come . . . and will carry us still further. For, without pretending, this human race would be back in the primeval ooze, in nothing flat.

Ever since this world began, the weak have been leaning on the strong . . . each man leaning, in his turn, on the fellow up above, trusting him, following him. And the strong have been pretending they Could Take It.

They couldn't, of course. There were times—gobs 'n' gobs of times—when they were as frightened and bewildered as anyone around them. But what would have happened if they confessed this dismal fact? Fifty-seven varieties of hell would have happened. They had to keep on going for their own salvation and self-respect, as well as the Other Fellow's need.

And so they bluffed. Yet it wasn't all bluff. For, by that very pretense of being wiser and stronger and kinder than they really were, they actually did become what they pretended. They lifted themselves by their own boot-straps. And the world rolled on. And civilization came. Not through one great rebellion, one splendid triumph—but by everyone pretending to be a bit better than he was, and gradually getting to be.

You still think it's hokum or deceit? Then answer me this: Where would YOU be today if your discouraged mother and father hadn't pretended you were worth all the suffering and sacrifice you caused?

Where would America be today if weary, frightened men and women, bankrupt of faith and courage, hadn't kept their agony to themselves and PRETENDED a loyalty and ecstacy which, temporarily, they couldn't feel?

Always it has been so. Suppose Socrates hadn't PRETENDED to laugh at the cup of hemlock that others might know that Truth was worth whatever pain it cost . . . suppose Joan of Arc hadn't PRETENDED that France was worth the flame . . . suppose Father Damien hadn't PRETENDED to love a leper's loathsomeness in those moments when loneliness and terror rotted his very soul . . . suppose Christ hadn't PRETENDED to prefer the Cross, even when He fainted under it.

They are not lying, those tall, triumphant souls. They knew as great agony and horror as flesh and spirit could endure. But they had steeled themselves to PRETEND when the poor flesh failed. And if there's a high form of courage on earth—or a deeper duty—I do not know it.

Health And Diet

Health Tests For Draft Army.

—By DR. CLENDENING

IN PREPARING for the physical examination of the men of our new army, undoubtedly special attention will be directed towards the detection of cases of tuberculosis.

This will be one of the really constructive results of the preparedness program. Most of the young men in whom tuberculosis is discovered will have no idea that they are otherwise than in the best of health. This fact has been the most insidious and dangerous feature of the disease and the one which, more than anything else, has prevented the saving of lives and the eradication of tuberculosis.

Few Symptoms.

If we get it in the early or incipient stage, we can nearly always cure a person with tuberculosis. The trouble in the past has been that it produces so few symptoms that it becomes well developed before anybody is aware that he is sick. The records are full of people who died of "a neglected cold" or something that "ran into tuberculosis." It didn't run into tuberculosis, the tuberculosis was there all the time but only in its late stages began to manifest symptoms.

The best method of rapid and accurate detection of the incipient case is by the use of the X-ray with the flat plate. Undoubtedly this method will be used by the army.

We recited a few weeks ago the experience at the New York World's fair where a firm offered to take a flat plate of the chest for $1.00 of anyone who applied—in other words, an entirely unselected group of cases. The astonishing result was that 3.3 per cent of those who had the examination were shown to have tuberculosis in some stage or other.

X-Ray Plate New Development.

During the last war the army boards used physical examination with a stethoscope; at least they did in the early drafts. The X-ray plate was not well developed in those days. I watched those boards work in noisy rooms under very unfavorable circumstances and I felt that they must have missed many cases.

If the plate method is used I am sure nearly all cases will be discovered and undoubtedly we will have to revise our statistical ideas about tuberculosis.

This method is typical of the endeavors of health authorities to [illegible] in any community. These endeavors on the part of the boards of health have met with considerable resistance. People do not like to think about the possibility and a workable examination is for that reason impractical. It is done done, however, and tests with the patients were removed from households where they [illegible] might be [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Parking Meters 'Collect' $350 In First Three Days

COLLECTIONS PER METER 28 CENTS A DAY

Rate of Receipts Now Enough To Pay For Machines In Seven Months.'

Mansfield motorists during the first three days parking meters were in operation paid an estimated $350 to park their automobiles on downtown streets.

That was the word today from officials at the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank where the first "take" from the new meters was being totaled today.

Bank officers had counted $290 taken from the container removed from the 413 meters by collectors yesterday. They expect to have the collection totaled this evening and estimated that the amount would "run close to $350."

The collection represents pennies and nickels deposited in the devices by motorists last Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, for the privilege of parking in the business district during the daylight hours.

From the amount already counted, bank clerks say they have found only 20 slugs, or about one in every $20 taken in.

On the basis of the first collection the average daily "take" per meter amounts to about 28 cents, bearing out parking meter representatives' statements that the daily average would run between 25 and 30 cents.

This means that the average monthly collection per meter would amount to about $7 or enough to pay for the machines in seven months.

However, it was pointed out by city officials that the collections will probably drop off in the next few weeks after motorists become more accustomed to the new method of "buying" parking time.

They pointed out that some persons unfamiliar with their operation probably deposited a nickel when only a penny would have been necessary, and that some persons put coins in the devices while unexpired time remained.

The multiple type machines were installed for a nine-month trial period during which time the city has agreed to pay $3.75 per month per meter as rental, the amount to apply on the purchase price should council decide to purchase the machines at that time.

Funds from the meters will be retained in a fund to pay the rental charges after which time they will be used exclusively for traffic control and enforcement.

Meanwhile, it was learned that a change had already been made in the collection method. Meter representatives said when sealed containers were taken from the machines yesterday they were replaced with containers without caps which will allow dumping of the cans into a large container to be carried by the meter collector.

The large container is then taken to the bank and emptied, eliminating the use of seals on the containers.

A small counter on each meter, however, records the coins collected in each parking meter, and these will be read once a month and audited by bank officials.

Delay Action To Select Official Emblem For City

Mansfield's artistically inclined citizens will have another week in which to mull over ideas for a city emblem. At a meeting of the committee recently appointed by Mayor W. J. Locke, which was held at his office yesterday afternoon, it was decided to hold the matter over for another week before a decision is reached.

More than a dozen drawings of emblems were submitted and considered. Several persons voiced objections to those that took the shape and color of foreign crests as not being distinctive of a middle-western American town. A new drawing submitted at the meeting used the shape of the state of Ohio as a background for figures that were emblematic of Mansfield.

Mrs. Arthur Zerbe, R. D. 2 Mansfield, descendent of one of the old families of the city, was named chairman of the committee. The next meeting will be held at the mayor's office at 4 p. m. next Monday.

The search for an official emblem of the city, which must be established as such by city council, was inspired by a request from the Lieutenant commander of His Majesty's Ship 'Mansfield' one of the 50 British destroyers lent and named for American cities. The ship wants to display an emblem representing the city.

WINS RULING

Shelby Insurance Company Released In Suits.

The Shelby Mutual Plate Glass and Casualty company had been freed today of responsibility for payment of damage claims and of the necessity of defending itself in damage suits involving a fatal traffic accident June 11, 1938 on Lexington avenue, Mansfield.

A verdict for the company was handed down by Judge C. H. Huston in common pleas court in a suit which had been pending for nearly two years.

Judge Huston held that a liability policy issued by the insurance firm to Paul F. Heineking, Mansfield, driver of one of the three cars involved in the accident was transferred to Mrs. Ida V. Heineking without the consent and knowledge of the company and was void at the time of the accident.

Relatives of Miss Ada Kovachy, Cleveland, juvenile court officer, who died in the crash, brought five damage suits in Cuyahoga county common pleas court against the insurance firm and Heineking. The actions involved Miss Kovachy's death and injuries received by others in the accident.

The insurance policy which had been issued to Heineking provided coverage up to $10,000 for injuries to a group of persons.

The insurance company was represented by Attys. Long, Anderson and Gue of Shelby and Beam and Beam, Mansfield.

every step as a policy-maker will be taken under a spotlight.

There was a chance the 54-year-old leader would be invited to take part in efforts to settle the New Kensington strike, which has thrown 7,500 into idleness and delayed national defense orders of $1,000,000 or more.

The aluminum walkout involved the tickish issue of dues collection, which also has been an issue in the steel industry where dues-collecting pickets have more than once hampered production.

At Downey, the CIO auto workers union has refused to accept a contract which would force compulsory arbitration for disputes. This led to a charge in congress that Communists were responsible for the strike and demands by Rep. Cox (D. Ga.) and Rep. Hoffman (R. Mich.) for legislation to outlaw "all strikes against the government" and to prevent labor [illegible] forcing membership on workers in defense plants.

Such developments are forcing labor's hand and make it necessary for Murray to act promptly and decisively, since both industrial and labor leaders agree that the national advisory defense commission has taken an adamantine position against general wage increases to prevent any inflationary spiral. Many expect Murray to lead a drive for "checkoff" of union dues by companies from the pay envelopes of union members.

A spokesman for the CIO's aluminum workers said a "checkoff" would have prevented the "incident" at New Kensington plant, where the union called a strike last Friday claiming $12 in dues. The mill's daily payroll is $44,000. The company is considering the union's demands that the worker be dismissed or transferred out of the bargaining group.

Already the informal suggestion has been made to some steel operators that existing contracts be "revised" to "smooth out" the dues collection angle.

Quest For Beauty Not Modern

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The other day a charming and piquant movie star confessed in an interview that she used seven different kinds of cream on her face during the day and evening. These various unguents seemed to have been for many different purposes — cleansing, foundation work, pore shrinking, and other things before which memory balks.

Still, with all these things to be done to Miss Modern's pretty little face, the beauties of ancient times seem to have worked even harder to enhance and keep their beauty. According to Mr. Jacob Hammer of Hunter college, in an article on "Beauty Culture In Ancient Rome," in the current issue of the "Classical Outlook," girls of two thousand years ago worked longer hours at making themselves beautiful than girls of today. Miss America's weekly or bi-weekly trip to the beauty parlor seems rather casual when compared to the creaming, steaming, pefuming and dyeing that went on in ancient baths. Mr. Hammer supplied a lengthy and interesting inventory of the B. C. prettifiers: dyes, oils, herbs, unguents, and dressings, some of them amazing in composition.

The ancient Roman's taste in women was clear cut. These gentlemen didn't want wives or sweethearts with the Roman nose that was supposed to confer dictatorial qualities; they preferred the small, well-cut Greek nose, which wasn't difficult to find in ancient Rome. They liked eyes like flaming torches and were rather choosey about hands, wanting them well-developed, with long, sensitive, tapering fingers. They were equally particular in demanding beautiful legs. Thick ankles, post-like extremities and legs with a suggestion of a rainbow curve were taboo.

The Romans of ancient days liked gleaming white teeth; apparently tooth powder was no novelty. They wanted their women to have lovely voices in speaking, above all no harsh laughter. They were even particular about the way a woman wept.

Romans liked shapely eyebrows, and tweezers were advocated to produce the right effect. Charm, of course, was understood, as one of the accomplishments. Women sang, played on musical instruments and were attentive listeners.

The statues which have come down to us show them to have had pleasantly rounded figures, no fat. Whether they dieted to the extent of present-day American ladies is a question. To jump from B. C. to present-day taste in women, it's interesting to note Mr. Charles Hanson Towne, author, poet, diner-out and connoisseur of life in general, confessed that he did not like that "dieted" look in women.

Centuries may come and go but a beautiful woman is a joy foreevr—to herself and the people who surround her.

Middle Age No Time To Relax

By MME QUI VIVE

To many a woman middle age is a delightful, comfortable, restful period. It is pretty much like taking off spiked heels after a night of dancing and slipping on mules. Or ridding yourself of a garter band that digs into you. Or your last visit to the dentist.

You aren't afraid of missing any parties: in fact you're fed up on parties. You don't have to sit around night clubs with a fixed smile on your face so people will fancy you are having a good time. You can spend an enjoyable evening washing your hair, getting into bed with a mystery book, thankful that the baby that once got you out of bed at five in the morning now gets himself up and dressed and off to the job. It's swell.

However, Mrs. Middle Age does have her bad moments. They come when she realizes that superfluous birthdays have a way of bringing along a fresh crop of beauty ills. What shall she do about them? Shall she accept the gray hair, the little wrinkles around her eyes, the thickened waistline or will she go on fighting a beauty war? We'll say she should fight. Why not? The reflection in the mirror is bound to bring reflections in the mind, and they might as well be pleasant ones.

Gray hair is fashionable, is seldom unbecoming, must always be beautifully arranged? Any stray wisps look more terrible than they do on a thatch of another color. The coiffure should be chic but not juvenilian. A shoulder-length bob on a woman of fifty—she usually fancies she doesn't look her age by ten or fifteen years—is pretty silly. By trying to look too young a woman of that type only makes herself look older.

By keeping the skin well lubricated wrinkles can be checked. Sebaceous glands are not so active as in the young days, underlying tissues have lost tone, the skin coat is a bit too large and falls into tiny creases. The friction necessary for the application and distribution of a massage emmolient acts favorably upon the tiny fibers and the circulation.

How youthfully the woman of fifty should dress depends upon her type. If she is slender, petite, carries herself well, she can revel in youthful attire. No matter what kind of a shape she has developed she should not make it a practice to wear dismal, characterless colors. A bit of old blue, cerise, old rose will do more for her complexion than mauve, gray or lavender, favorite colors of some of the more conservative ladies among us.

Hands need daily oiling so that they won't look old. Over-brilliant nail polish, which calls attention to them, should be avoided.

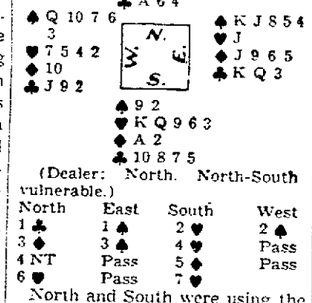
"The Authority on Authorities"

THE BIG LITTLE SEVEN

One of the most interesting things about the game is the way that the exact size of little cards can sometimes decide the fate of a contract. Bidding can never become so exact that it can show whether a defender holding four trumps has them topped by a seven-spot or a six-spot, yet the result of your endeavor can depend upon such an apparent trifle. In brief, you never can eliminate the uncertainty and gamble from the game, and if you could, your intelligence would make you quit playing it. What you strive for always is to become so that you take more sound gambles and fewer unsound ones.



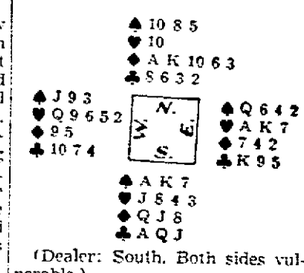
(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	1 ♠	2 ♥	2 ♠
3 ♦	3 ♠	4 ♥	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♦	Pass
6 ♥	Pass	7 ♥

North and South were using the Vanderbilt club system, also the Blackwood slam convention. When West made the unorthodox lead of the diamond 10, South promptly figured it as a probable singleton and planned accordingly. He cashed the spade A. Then, probing trumps, he led the 8 to the heart K and was chagrined to see the J drop, marking West with four trumps. At that stage South did not realize how important West's 7 was at the top of those four cards, but he soon found out.

Seeing that he must ruff one diamond to set up that suit, enabling him then to get only three discards, in clubs, he also had to get rid of a losing spade. So he ruffed the spade 9 with the heart A and returned to his hand with the heart 10 to the Q. The heart 9 made a third round of trumps, but it left West with the high 7 against South's 6 and 3, so he had to go down one trick. If the 10 or 8 of hearts could have been in South's hand in place of the 6 or 3, the contract would have been made.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

How would you recommend bidding this hand, if you knew West as a player who likes to make short-suit leads against No Trump contracts?

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I was in Mother Graham's room when Dicky's car turned into the driveway. I had rushed to her immediately, for when I had seen Katie shepherding Faith on the veranda with Junior and Roderick hovering adoringly over the baby girl, a real "baby" no longer, I knew that Katherine must still be in attendance upon my mother-in-law.

"Old vomans she have pretty bad spell," Katie had volunteered, "but me, I teenk she mooch better now."

I agreed with her when Dicky's mother smiled her joy up at me as I bent over her. But my heart ached at her ravaged face. One of her heart attacks always takes so much out of her.

"Isn't it wonderful, Margaret?" she whispered.

"My boy—is—safe," she said, and there was something so pitiful in her eyes that I felt the tears welling into my own. But I pressed them back, for I knew no outside emotion must touch her, and only said gently, "Yes, Mother, I know."

Her trembling lips framed another question.

"I know he is in a tremendous hurry," she faltered, "but you won't let him go away without my seeing him, will you?"

"Do you think he'd stir a step without bidding you good-bye?" I chided. "But I promise, anyway. And now, I must say good-bye to you, if it's all right." I turned to Katherine with a question in my eyes.

"Yes, she's perfectly recovered," Katherine said, "but she must remain in bed the rest of the day. She'll be in her usual good health tomorrow."

"Then good-bye, dearest," I said bending over the bed and kissing her warmly, while her trembling hands clung to mine.

"Give Lillian my love," she said, "and tell her I am praying for Marion's safe return," she whispered. "And bless you, my dear daughter. You are very good to me."

I went out of the room upon that benediction, walking leisurely, but fairly running as soon as I had closed her door. For I had heard—what her duller ears had not—the sound of Dicky's car turning into the driveway.

I just made it, and Dicky's somber, agitated face lightened ever so slightly as he spied me.

"Ready to go?" he asked.

"All ready," I said, and then he answered my unspoken question.

"I didn't have a chance in hell," he said despondently. "That fellow had one of the fastest cars made, and the driver must have known every turn and twist of the back roads around here. I was able to keep them in sight along the concrete roads, then they turned into a back road, and I followed them a while, but he was taking curves so recklessly, and I after him that it's a wonder we both didn't wrap the cars around the trees. Then I came to with a jerk. The pace we were going, all of us would have been in the morgue before another quarter of an hour, and while it probably would be a good thing to land the two men there, it wouldn't do Lil any good to send her daughter back to her in a basket, so I slowed up, turned around and came back here."

"It was the only possible course to follow," my father approved. "And we have one good clue already."

Dicky looked up alertly.

"May I know it?" he asked, "or aren't you ready to announce it yet."

"There is no reason why you shouldn't know it," my father said. "It's simply that I am fairly sure of the identity of the man with Marion. Margaret imitated his voice for me, and Mrs. Ticer gave me a good description of him. From both, I was able to reconstruct a figure on whom I have been keeping an eye for a long time. He never has been in our custody, but I am positive some of his activities warrant his detention, although we never have been able to prove anything definite against him."

I was unable to restrain a comment.

"Mrs. Ticer's picture was that of a young man, a collegian almost," I said.

"This man will never see thirty-five again," my father said. "But he is remarkably youthful in appearance. He is going to be hard to get, but I am sure of his capture in the end, I trust before it is too late to rescue Marion."

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, November 27.

LUNAR as well as mutual aspects of major planets bearing rule on the affairs of this day signify much excitement, confusion, turmoil and tension. In all relations there may be commotion and conflict, with scattering of forces as well as resources, excesses, hostility, and contradictions. Difficulties and distresses may best be vanquished by extreme caution restraint, sagacity and high principle. Reckless, belligerent, tumultuous and impetuous conduct of threatening and frustrating circumstances would prove disastrous.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which progress and satisfaction may be menaced by divers disturbances, distresses, opposition and conflict. Such turbulence and commotion are likely to be aggravated by rash, hasty, impetuous and violent activities when difficult and challenging situations call for calm, controlled and clever management and shrewd insight into obstructing and malefic causes.

A child born on this day may have many contradictory traits which call for sympathetic direction and understanding. It may be impetuous, aggressive, wayward but ambitious and shrewd, with probable programs of rule or ruin.

STUDENTS BEGIN COMPETITION IN FLIGHT PROGRAM

Over Fifty Seek Fifteen CAA Scholarships; Training Starts Dec. 2.

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

Some 50-odd youths will embark on a 12-week course of instruction Dec. 2 in competition for 15 flight scholarships offered by the government under it's Civil Pilot training program.

They will sacrifice two nights a week, spending nearly four hours each Monday and Friday in the classroom at Senior high school for the next three months.

Under a revised course of ground school instruction, the students will spend 24 hours on aircraft operation, 24 hours on navigation, and 24 hours on meteorology.

At the close of the 12 week course examinations will be given and a 30-hour course of flight training at municipal airport will be awarded to the 15 top ranking students.

The class is the third to get under way in Mansfield in the past year under the Government's stepped up program of National defense and is sponsored by the Mansfield chapter of the National Aeronautical association.

The last of the 15 students who made up the initial class which started training last spring, Paul D. Leonhardt of Shelby soloed at the port yesterday.

Meanwhile a new group of 10 students successful in the ground school which was completed a few weeks ago took to the air this week under the eyes of instructors.

Seven of the new students were assigned to a new instructor added to the Harrington Air Service staff. He is M. J. Ernst of Chambersburg, Pa., who took over his new duties here Thursday.

James R. Harrington, airport manager and Russell Gledhill of Galion have been handling the flight instruction all summer but shorter days made it necessary that another pilot be engaged to give the students training in the evenings.

Airport attendants entertained numerous visitors yesterday, among them three fliers enroute from the Piper Aircraft factory at Lockhaven, Pa., to the west coast.

The tiny monoplanes were piloted by H. V. Parkhill and Bessie G. Halladay, both bound for Portland, Ore., and Roy W. Nelson, who was flying to Cutbank, Mont.

The safety minded Civil Aeronautics board has issued a new warning advising all prospective passengers who go to airports to take rides to request the pilot to show his license.

"Forty-two per cent of all accidents involving planes in non-scheduled operations, in which passengers were carried, had student pilots at the controls," the board reported.

According to law, a pilot must comply with the request to show his license and he must have either a private or commercial rating to take passengers aloft with him.

Labor Responsibility In Defense Program Outlined

SECRETARY OF LABOR PERKINS ADDRESSES AFL

Adjustment of Differences by Unions Urged In Convention Talk.

(By Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS—Secretary of Labor Perkins told labor today it had a responsibility under national defense to carry out its contracts, seek an adjustment of its own family differences, avoid production delays, and "thwart influences from dishonest or subversive sources."

She expressed these views about labor's role in the defense program in a speech prepared for delivery at the annual American Federation of Labor convention.

"Labor has status today as never before," she said.

"That responsibility calls for carrying out all contracts agreed upon," she added.

"That responsibility calls for sincere and conscientious effort to bring about a fair and honorable adjustment of differences within the labor movement itself.

"That responsibility calls for cooperation by labor with employers and with all responsible groups to avoid delays and interruptions—to increase production and efficiency, and to preserve and promote human welfare and labor standards at the same time in the defense program which we as a nation have undertaken."

Doubt Perkins To Keep Office

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Informed labor men doubted today that Secretary Labor Frances Perkins would serve through President Roosevelt's third term but believed that her resignation awaits effectuation of a working agreement between the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

They said that the Roosevelt administration had given up hope—at least temporarily—for any immediate structural merger of the AFL and CIO. They pointed out that Miss Perkins' speech today to the AFL convention in New Orleans made no mention of labor peace, called only for "a fair and honorable adjustment" of labor differences.

Evaluation Of Senior High Gets Under Way

With more than 50 leading educators from throughout Ohio arriving in the city yesterday, the three-day evaluation study of Mansfield Senior high school got under way this morning at the school.

Following an informal dinner in the cafeteria last night, the group organized into committees to study the equipment and scholastic curriculum at the school and evaluate them in comparison with other schools.

According to Jesse Beer, principal, the evaluation will be made on a much more comprehensive scale than has yet been attempted in any high school in the state. A number of such evaluations will be made of other schools during the year by the same group, he said.

High school principals, college professors, subject matter specialists and members of the state department of education will be among those making the evaluation.

Senate Opens Debate on Walter-Logan Bill

Glen Robinson, principal of Hedges school, is searching this week for the person or persons who sent him one of those funny post cards. The card shows two monkeys playing billiards and under the short monkey was written "Robinson" and under the tall, lanky monkey "Dotson" (meaning H. J. Dotson, principal of John Simpson Junior high school.) Dotson and Robinson get together regularly for a game of billiards, but Dotson claims no knowledge of the sender of the postcard. Dotson has a tall build and Robinson, of course, is short.

If any Mansfield social club is having trouble with organization problems, they might take a lesson from the Principals' association, a group made up of Mansfield school principals, assistant principals, members of the board of education, and the superintendent. Getting together only for the fun they get out of each other's company, the club has no dues, no officers, no set meeting dates, and yet boasts 100 per cent attendance. When any two men in the club decide it's time to call a meeting, they telephone all the others and inform them of the time and place of the meeting. Members claim there is never a dull moment.

Postmaster H. E. Homberger estimated today that the total number of aliens to register at the postoffice before registration closes Dec. 26 will exceed an earlier estimate of 1,000.

Homberger said that at the close of last week 989 aliens had been registered and fingerprinted at the postoffice and that large numbers had come into the office this week for application blanks.

With the Ohio State Reformatory, the County infirmary and Richland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium yet to be registered by officials, Homberger stated that the number of aliens to register in this area should exceed 1200.

Homberger urged today that aliens in the area who have not applied for application blanks do so at once to avoid a last minute jam.

SCHOOLS GET FUNDS DEC. 1

Mansfield and Richland County Will Receive $92,499 In Foundation Money.

Mansfield and Richland county schools will receive a total of $92,499 in state school foundation money about Dec. 1, but the distribution of state teachers' and school employes' funds for the final quarter of 1940 probably will not be made until after Jan. 1, E. N. Dietrich, state education director, said today.

In the quarterly allocation of school operating funds Mansfield schools will get $45,068 and the county rural schools, $47,431. Shelby schools, in a special district, will receive $18,568.

Dietrich said the teachers' retirement money will be held up because the state school program lacks the money with which to pay it.

He explained that the school foundation program appropriation for 1940 was approximately $18,200,000, while about $49,300,000 was required, leaving a difference of $1,115,727, or the amount of the quarterly teachers' retirement allocation.

CATS OF HIGH AND LOW DEGREE PREENED FOR FELINE FROLICS

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO—Cats from fire stations, warehouses and factories were being preened today for one of the biggest social events since the Mother Goose pussycat journeyed to London to visit a queen.

The affair was the 31st annual Beresford Cat club show where lowly pets and mascots will have a chance to rub whiskers with the bluebloods of the feline world.

Marty IV, mascot of the world's largest building, the Merchandise Mart of Chicago, will climb from his home 60 feet underground to occupy a cage adjoining a blue-eyed white Persian. Marty has spent most of his life in the building's sub-basement boiler room.

Strato Lizzie, mascot of the TWA airline, was booked to fly in from Kansas City.

Skippy, a cat of no particular breed, planned to drop into sport his humane society medal. He won it when he woke his mistress, Mrs. Anne Augustin of Chicago, in a gas filled room and saved her from asphyxiation.

Another lowly entry is a Chicago fire station mascot whose masters have taught him how to slide down a pole when a alarm sounds.

TAFT TO ASK ROLL CALL ON LABOR CHANGE

Demands Smith Amendments Be Taken Out of Their Pigeon-Hole.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— The senate passed the controversial Logan-Walter bill today, 27 to 25. The bill designed to facilitate appeals to the courts from rulings of executive agencies of the federal government, already has passed the house. It goes back there, however, action on several amendments.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The senate began debate today on the Walter-Logan bill "to regulate the regulators" and its supporters predicted that it would be passed within the week, despite reports that President Roosevelt would veto it.

It was passed by the house several months ago. It would subject the rulings and regulations of quasi-judicial agencies, such as the national labor relations board, to court review. Its opponents charge it is designed to hamstring executive agencies.

The senate education and labor committee took up the nomination of Dr. Harry A. Millis to be chairman of the national labor relations board and a demand for a vote on the house-approved amendments to the labor act.

Sen. Robert A. Taft, (R-O.), will ask for a roll call vote on the Smith amendments to the labor act which have been pigeon-holed in the committee for several months. He said Chairman Elbert Thomas was not opposed to a vote. Several other members said they did not believe the amendments would be reported to the senate.

Sen. Carl A. Hatch (D.—N. M.) floor leader for the Walter-Logan bill, was "very happy" over the 34 to 21 vote by which the senate decided yesterday to consider the bill.

Hatch said he had heard "reports" that the anti-lynching bill might be offered as a rider. Such a move would be tantamount to defeat, because it would inspire southern members to filibuster.

ACCIDENTAL SHOT

STEUBENVILLE —(AP)— A shot gun shell swept into a fireplace exploded and seriously wounded Mrs. Richard Bell, 32, at nearby Salt Run.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Miss Midnight's Diary.

Dear Diary: I have always been of the not-very-startling opinion that certain things were just made for each other: caviar and champagne—stormy weather and a blazing fireplace—hot dogs and mustard—strawberries and cream.

Besides these inanimate combinations, there exist characters around town who are simply twain, and I always feel delighted to observe the wonderful moment when people who are Perfect Together gravitate toward each other for the first time.

That's why I am so pleased because Martha Raye and Rags Raglund have at long last found each other.

Martha is, to perpetrate a colossal understatement, high spirited. In fact, when she is merely boisterous she is not quite up to par. And Rags—Rags is a creature of completely cyclonic animation.

Both of them have read and even heard mention of the word inhibition, but they have not the slightest idea of what it means.

Raye and Raglund romped into Leon and Eddie's Saturday evening and immediately stood the cafe on the ear. They arose from their chairs, took to the dance arena, and engaged in an exhibition conga which would have frightened the entire population of the Argentine. As the terpsichore grew hot, Martha tossed off her hat, Rags divested himself of his jacket. Then Martha kicked off her shoes. And Rags kicked off his shoes. The subsequent frenzy was something to behold.

I may be premature, but I think this quiet little romance will bear watching.

A trifle more subdued, but quite a bit more ornamental were Gloria and Bob Topping, who wandered in dressed as elegantly as if they had just come from opening night at the opera.

Glamor girl Gloria glittered with gems, and her ermine coat swept the floor quite literally, with the result that the night porter had very little trouble Making With the Broom when dawn rolled around.

Nancy Kelly, of Hollywood, is causing great eye-popping and neck-craning wherever she goes because of her back. Intimate friends spot her in the thickest crowd because of it, and say: "Oh, Nancy's here. I see her back."

This instantaneous recognition of Nancy's spinal column by practically anyone in the cafe set is a result of Nancy's specially designed evening dresses, which are made to show more epidermis from shoulder to hip than has been revealed by any other visiting celebrity from the celluloids to date, and include in the revelation her ribs.

This is achieved by a large diamond-shaped cut-out in the back of the dress, and it is this unique diamond which makes people take a quick look and say:

"There goes Nancy."

When I last talked to Nancy she said that Edmond O'Brien, to whom she has been intermittently engaged, was on the point of flying here from the coast to see her, in what she described as a big romantic gesture.

Until his plane got here, she seemed uncommonly content to rhumba in the arms of Mr. Francis X. Farrell.

Playwright Freddy Finklehoffe strolled into Barney Gallant's Monday night and spotted Robert Sherwood, Elmer Rice and Sam Behrman all sitting together. Finklehoffe went directly to the telephone and called William Saroyan in San Francisco to tell him who was there.

Saroyan listened to the celebrated roll call.

"Get out of there, Freddy," he ordered. "I won't have you mixing with amateurs."

Later that night (one might even call it early the next morning) Spivy's Roof was made lively by Frank Shields, Gypsy Rose Lee, Joe E. Brown, Adelaide Moffett, and the hand-holding Libby Holman and Ralph Holmes.

Spivy chatted for quite a while with a charming elderly lady, who could be heard by eavesdroppers to say:

"So the plane was grounded in Albuquerque at 3 in the morning. The hostess told Norma that she'd have to get out of her berth, because the plane was going to be put in the hangar until the weather ahead cleared. But Norma told the hostess she preferred to remain in bed, even though she smothered in the hangar. So they let her sleep and kept a door open for her."

The charming elderly lady was Norma Shearer's mother.

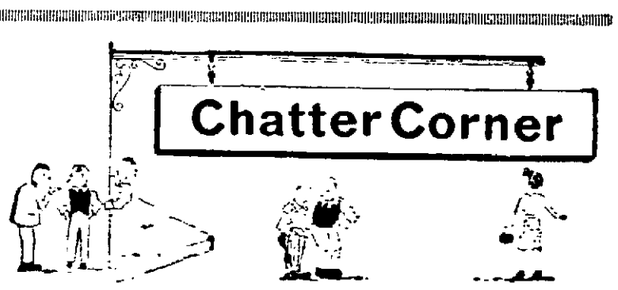
The hush in Monte Carlo the other night was caused by all the gentlemen in the room who were holding their breath.

They were holding their breath because Simone Simon came in wearing a red evening dress which started low and had no straps to hold it up. Most gentlemen do not understand that these gowns stay up by more than a mere coincidence and several fellows in Simone's vicinity were so nervous that $16-a-bottle champagne was being spilled on the tablecloths.

Calmest gentleman around was Simone's escort, Al Bloomingdale. Stop me if I am wrong, but I believe that is a new combination.



(Just jottings about people you know, as they're seen here and there about town.)

Sheriff "Doggie" Long telling between chuckles of a joke on his wife, Mabel. She had a severe cold and couldn't speak out loud. A woman came into the county jail office and when Mrs. Long asked her what she wanted she was forced to do so in a hoarse whisper. The woman accepted the situation as part of jail etiquette and lowered her voice to a mere whisper, too.

Correct Constipation Before—Not After!

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of emergency relief. Why let yourself suffer those dull lifeless days because of constipation, why bring on the need for emergency medicines when there may be a far better way? That way is to KEEP regular by getting at the cause of the trouble.

If it's common constipation due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, a pleasant, nutritious, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran goes straight to the cause by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this crunchy toasted cereal regularly, drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

STUDENTS BEGIN COMPETITION IN FLIGHT PROGRAM

Over Fifty Seek Fifteen CAA Scholarships; Training Starts Dec. 2.

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

Some 50-odd youths will embark on a 12-week course of instruction Dec. 2 in competition for 15 flight scholarships offered by the government under it's Civil Pilot training program.

They will sacrifice two nights a week, spending nearly four hours each Monday and Friday in the classroom at Senior high school for the next three months.

Under a revised course of ground school instruction, the students will spend 24 hours on aircraft operation, 24 hours on navigation, and 24 hours on meteorology.

At the close of the 12 week course examinations will be given and a 30-hour course of flight training at municipal airport will be awarded to the 15 top ranking students.

The class is the third to get under way in Mansfield in the past year under the Government's stepped up program of National defense and is sponsored by the Mansfield chapter of the National Aeronautical association.

The last of the 15 students who made up the initial class which started training last spring, Paul D. Leonhardt of Shelby soloed at the port yesterday.

Meanwhile a new group of 10 students successful in the ground school which was completed a few weeks ago took to the air this week under the eyes of instructors.

Seven of the new students were assigned to a new instructor added to the Harrington Air Service staff. He is M. J. Ernst of Chambersburg, Pa., who took over his new duties here Thursday.

James R. Harrington, airport manager and Russell Gledhill of Galion have been handling the flight instruction all summer but shorter days made it necessary that another pilot be engaged to give the students training in the evenings.

Airport attendants entertained numerous visitors yesterday, among them three fliers enroute from the Piper Aircraft factory at Lockhaven, Pa., to the west coast.

The tiny monoplanes were piloted by R. V. Parkhill and Bessie G. Halladay, both bound for Portland Ore., and Roy W. Nelson, who was flying to Cutbank, Mont.

The safety minded Civil Aeronautics board has issued a new warning advising all prospective passengers who go to airports to take rides to request the pilot to show his license.

"Forty-two per cent of all accidents involving planes in non-scheduled operations in which passengers were carried, had student pilots at the controls," the board reported.

According to law, a pilot must comply with the request to show his license and he must have either a private or commercial rating to take passengers aloft with him.
